

MISSOURIANS VOTE 10-6 IN HOUSE FOR CENSUS MEASURE

Cochran Says He Has Isolated Himself Out of a Job but Feels It His Constitutional Duty.

BILL PASSES 271-104, AMENDMENTS OUT
State to Lose Three Congressmen Ultimately — Tilson Accused of Strong-Arm Tactics.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—The 16 Missouri representatives in the House divided 10 to 6 in favor of the census and reapportionment bill passed by the House yesterday, under which Missouri is due ultimately to suffer a loss of at least three Congressmen. Those voting for the bill were the three St. Louisans, Dyer (Rep.), Cochran (Dem.), and Niedringhaus (Rep.), and the following others: Cannon (Dem.), Ellis (Rep.), Johnston (Rep.), Kiefner (Rep.), Nelson (Dem.), Short (Rep.) and Palmer (Rep.).

Voting against the bill were Halsey (Rep.), Lozier (Dem.), Manlove (Rep.), Milligan (Rep.), Roush (Dem.), and Hopkins (Rep.). Cochran of St. Louis placed in the record today a statement that in voting for the bill he believed he had helped to isolate himself out of a job. It was his constitutional duty, Cochran said, to vote for reapportionment.

"When the bill becomes effective," added the St. Louisan, "my service in this body will terminate. I know the political situation in St. Louis. I know that it is impossible to place the required number of people in a district and to arrange the lines in any district in St. Louis in such a way that it will not be Republican by 10,000."

Foresees New Deadlock.
"My district (the eleventh) is from 4500 to 5000 Republicans but by serving the people I have succeeded in being elected to the Sixty-ninth and each succeeding Congress. But I know that I could not hope to win in a district which is certain to have after reapportionment a Republican majority of 10,000."

Cochran said the legislative tangle which almost caused the defeat of the bill in the House yesterday will be repeated in the Senate. He said that the House again takes up the reapportionment question after the 1930 census. The bill takes care of that eventually by providing that if the House does not act, reapportionment should be automatically brought about on the basis of figures proclaimed by the President.

"Therefore," said Cochran, "the only way we could hope to cure the inequalities resulting from the failure of Congress to reapportion after the census of 1920 was to pass this bill. The large cities have been deprived of their just representation for nearly 10 years. St. Louis and St. Louis County are entitled to at least four representatives. We have but three. Kansas City is entitled to a representative by itself, but it is not included in a district with the rest of Jackson County. One Congressman there represents nearly 400,000 people.

Result of Neglect.
"The neglect of Congress to reapportion after 1920 has deprived more than 10,000,000 people of the United States of their proper representation."

"But regardless of whether the country or the cities stand to gain by reapportionment, it should be effected every 10 years as required by the Constitution. My only regret is that the bill does not make it mandatory upon the states to rearrange congressional districts so as to provide an approximately equal number of people in each, instead of permitting states to elect at large if additional representation has been granted."

The bill, as finally passed and sent to conference, by a vote of 271 to 104 is not materially different from the bill as passed by the Senate. One matter to be adjusted is the date of taking the census. The Senate bill fixes the date at Nov. 1, 1929, the House bill at May 1, 1930.

Just before final passage, the House restored the provision for an unemployment census, which it previously had stricken out. The bill thereby was brought back into line with the Senate measure.

Showgirl Suicide and Man Named in Note

BROKER SOUGHT AFTER SHOWGIRL KILLS SELF

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 7.—While the body of Barbara Cole, English showgirl, lay unclaimed in the morgue yesterday, police searched for Edwin Page, broker, to learn what her love for him had to do with her suicide.

Miss Cole plunged to her death from the twelfth story of a fashionable apartment house Wednesday night. Close to her body was found a picture of Page, a message scribbled on the back. A note in her pocketbook declared her love for him.

Page failed to appear at the inquest. The coroner issued a subpoena for him but he could not be found, either at his office or home. Where his wife was reported to live he saw anyone.

The inquest was postponed indefinitely pending the finding of the broker and authorities were making an effort to communicate with relatives or friends of the dead woman. It was learned she mailed a special delivery letter to New York 15 minutes before her death.

Miss Cole was divorced three years ago from William Biddle, son of a New York tobacco magnate, and has two children who are with her father, Robert Cole, as well as her father, Robert Cole, as well as her father, Robert Cole.

Miss Cole appeared recently in a minor role in "Rio Rita."

The House, however, omitted the unemployment census from another part of the bill. This is an inconsistency that will have to be corrected in conference.

The House reversed itself on the two alien amendments. Its final action was against the registration of aliens and against the Hoch proposal to exclude aliens from the total on which representation is based. The Tinkham amendment to exclude disfranchised citizens from the count also was out. The effect of this would have been to reduce Southern representation.

SENATE PASSES 'LAME DUCK' BILL FOR FIFTH TIME

Fate of Norris Resolution for Ending Rule by Repudiated Legislators Up to House Again.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—It is again up to the House to say whether the states shall have a chance to end the system under which men defeated at the polls at the Congressional elections in November continue to act as lawmakers until the following March.

By a vote of 64 to 5, the Senate this afternoon for the fifth time in the last six years put the stamp of its approval on the Norris amendment, which proposed to wipe out the "lame duck" session of Congress and to bring newly elected legislators into office within two months after their choice at the polls.

The nine Senators voting against the submission of the proposed amendment to the states were Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, who led the opposition; Blaine (Dem.), South Carolina; Dale (Rep.), Vermont; Greene (Rep.), Vermont; Hastings (Rep.), Delaware; King (Dem.), Utah; Metcalf (Rep.), Rhode Island; Patterson (Rep.), Missouri; and Waterman (Rep.), Colorado.

Hawes (Dem.), Missouri, voted for the proposal.

House Has Been Obstacle.
The House has acted only once on the amendment. Though it then received 209 votes as compared with 153 against, the bill failed through lack of the required two-thirds majority. Supporters of the amendment are hopeful that changes in the House personnel since that time will enable the measure to be put through in the present Congress.

Speaking under a special agreement allowing him half an hour, the die-hard Senator Bingham said the result sought by the amendment could be accomplished just as well by the passage of an act changing the meeting date of Congress.

In answer to the argument that legislation by "lame ducks" ought to be stopped, Bingham, quoting a House member, said it was "better to have legislation by lame ducks than by unattached eggs."

Bingham said that the long inaction of the House since the election and the first regular session of Congress was desirable in order that the President and his Cabinet might have time in which to familiarize themselves with their new duties and presenting a program to Congress.

Would Change Constitution.
Replying to Bingham, Senator Norris, author of the amendment, pointed out that a change in the meeting date of Congress would necessarily shorten the terms of Congressmen in office at the time of the change, and that hence a constitutional amendment would be required. This was also true in the case of the President, whose term is definitely fixed by the Constitution at four years. Under the proposed amendment, the inauguration of the President would take place on Jan. 20 instead of March 4, while Congressmen would come into office on Jan. 2.

Norris read the constitutional provision regarding the term of the President and added, speaking to Bingham:

"Any eighth grade student could understand that."

Norris said that the system of legislation by "lame ducks" had led to "disgraceful acts" in the Senate by men seeking to curry favor with the President in the hope of getting appointive jobs. One reason the filibuster was so frequently used in the short session, he declared, was to stop the passage of legislation whose only chance of success lay in the votes of men who had been repudiated by their constituents. He cited instances of legislation thus defeated which had not even been offered in the succeeding session.

"It is only the political machine," declared Norris, "that benefits from the short session."

The presence in the bill of the Hoch amendment and the retaliatory Tinkham amendment had created a situation threatening the defeat of all reapportionment legislation by this Congress. A solution was found by the Republican leadership, which succeeded, at a stormy session, in eliminating both amendments at one stroke and restoring the reapportionment provision to virtually their original form.

VESUVIUS RENEWS ERUPTIONS AFTER VILLAGERS RETURN

Lava Flung Up as People Back in Nearby Homes Thank Saint for Recent Deliverance.

By the Associated Press.
NAPLES, June 7.—Renewed convulsions deep within the crater of Vesuvius today disquieted residents of the villages about its base. The villagers late yesterday returned to their homes and erected thanksgiving tabernacles for their patron saints on street corners.

The Vesuvius observatory had reported the lava flow stopped and the pools of white-hot rock rapidly cooling when the new suburban town of San Sebastiano was built on the ground so that doors and windows miles away rattled.

Little fountains of liquid fire sprang up within the crater and lasted for several minutes and many lumps of molten lava and boulders were flung up from the cone.

Terzigno proper was hardly touched by the lava flow, which encircled the town. The inhabitants credited St. Gennaro, patron saint of Naples, with intervening in their behalf and improvised tabernacles at the street corners for images of him and other saints. Flowers were placed in front of the shrines and religious feeling was high.

A tabulation of damage caused thus far showed that 50 houses were destroyed. One hundred and twenty-five acres of land was covered by lava, 90 acres being vineyard and farm land and the remainder forest.

Macdonald in reply wrote: "I am very glad that you have decided it was a waste of time and effort to try to force the issue on the public for you to continue to believe that the party with which you have been hitherto associated can be revived so as to contribute something that would be really helpful to our public life. It has become a question of choosing which of two parties one has to serve."

The Ministers will not actually assume office until tomorrow morning when they will receive from King George the seals of their offices.

Baldwin Cabinet Formally Surrendered Seals to King.

WINDSOR, June 7.—The state ceremony of handing over the seals of office by members of the retiring Baldwin cabinet took place at Windsor Castle this afternoon.

The members of the Baldwin Cabinet traveled from London in a special train and were met at the station here by five state carriages. The retiring Ministers were in morning dress with silk hats. They were conducted into the castle by equeiries.

Baldwin motored from Chequers Court and reached the castle about 20 minutes after his Ministers had arrived.

The entire party was then conducted into the King's bedroom. The monarch received them seated in a chair. The grand surrendering of the tokens of office was quickly concluded and the Ministers kissed the sovereign's hand ceremoniously as they took their leave.

King George attired in morning dress received the retiring ministers. After remaining in the castle about an hour the former Conservative cabinet drove back to London by special train.

FLIGHTS IN GLIDER DEMONSTRATED AT NORTH HILLS CLUB

Motorless Flying Device Gets Impulse Through Elastic Ropes — Travels 300 Feet.

Gliding, or motorless flight, a sport that has become general in Germany, was introduced for the first time here at the North Hills Country Club yesterday.

A number of flights, the longest terminating about 300 feet from the starting point, were made by Charles Peterson, a pilot from Lambert-St. Louis Field, and others, including Miss Eleanor Webber, 1320 Merchant street, who had never made a flight of any sort previously.

The glider used was made in Germany and has a 36-foot wing, with standard belt and rudder control. The technique of gliding demonstrated by Gardner Smith, who hopes to popularize the sport here, is as follows:

The pilot takes his seat, adjusts a safety belt and awaits developments. Several persons grasp the tail of the glider while a starting crew numbering eight or 10 men take hold of two elastic ropes, which are hooked on to the front of the glider. The ropes are drawn taut and then the starting crew starts to run as the anchors at the tail let go their holds.

Under the starting impulse the glider takes off almost immediately, attaining an altitude of 20 feet in tests yesterday. The flights were made across a ravine and in most instances the pilots succeeded in reaching the opposite side of the depression. After soaring in an arc the glider settles fast and the impact on landing is rather jarring.

Peterson, who landed his plane on a nearby fairway following a flight from Lambert-St. Louis Field, is enthusiastic about the sport, as were the others who made short hops. There is a similarity between gliding and bob-sledding, however, in that each attempt must be followed by a hard pull uphill.

The glider demonstrated weighs 190 pounds, and judging from the jarring landings it without, is of durable construction. A skid is used in place of wheels. The craft appears airworthy and displayed no inclination to nose into the ground when properly handled, landing on an even keel. A second demonstration was scheduled for this afternoon.

In Germany, gliding enthusiasts have developed the sport to the point where they can make sustained flights lasting for hours at altitudes of several thousand feet. The best flights are made in a light but steady wind.

A photograph of Peterson taking off in the glider is published on the pictorial page of this edition.

Experts Sign Reparation Pact, End War Dispute

ly settled, the next step was up to the Governments involved. Ratification of the experts' recommendations is necessary as well as complete plans for working out the details.

In order to finish their work today, all the experts, their secretaries and other helpers worked night and day during the last week. They worked late last night and went without luncheon today. Almost of the very moment of signing their names to the report, they were busy putting the finishing touches on it.

The document which they signed after long and arduous labors, was designed to liquidate the World War by the end of the year 1929, just 75 years after it began.

Summary of Experts' Report.
The report dwells upon the following advantages:
Decreasing the burden on Germany.

Taking of the reparations question out of politics.
Putting it into an organization of orderly business.

The elimination of outside organizations that exercise a control in Germany.

The early mobilization of a considerable part of the first 27 annuities to give the creditor Powers important sums available for the reduction of their own interior debts.

The annuities are divisible into post-payable and non-post-payable points, but there is no distinction in the report between the part of the annuities applicable to reparations and the part attributed to payments of the creditors' war debts. The report, in fact, seems to avoid carefully any coincidence between references to reparations and debts.

Two Classes of Payments.

The unconditional part of the first 37 annuities amounts to $60,000,000 gold marks (about $18,400,000) a year of which $50,000,000 gold marks (about $12,000,000) is considered the part liable to commercialization. It may produce, at the present value, between 7,000,000,000 francs and 8,000,000,000 francs ($1,200,000,000).

By special arrangement among the creditors, France is accorded the bulk of the unconditional annuities for commercialization purposes. It is calculated that this will give France the equivalent of 42,000,000,000 francs, present value (about $1,680,000,000).

The offer of the United States to reduce what was due it from Germany for the cost of the army of occupation in the Rhineland and 10 per cent was taken into account in the report. The rest of the cost of occupation will be liquidated in the first 37 annuities. Mixed claims are to be liquidated within 52 years.

Peace-Time Methods Used.

The experts dealt especially on their attitude toward the commercialization of the reparation problem. They emphasize that they have tried to substitute processes of peace-time methods for war-time psychology.

The first part of the report is largely introductory. It deals with the terms under which the reparations problem was referred to the committee and it also gives a recapitulation of the meetings that have been held.

The next chapter is devoted entirely to the commercialization program. It emphasizes the need to convert what has been a political debt into a business obligation.

TOBACCO MERGER OF $250,000,000 FIRMS IS PLANNED

Duke and Ryan Interand United Cigar Stores to Join to Bring Peace to Industry.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 7.—A tobacco merger bringing together the Duke and Thomas Fortune Ryan interests is reported under way in New York.

United Cigar Stores Co. of America, Union Tobacco Co. of America, Products Corporation, worth $250,000,000 at present market values, are to be brought together under one company—Tobacco Drug, Inc., according to the report.

Tobacco & Drug, Inc., is to be incorporated in Delaware as a holding company and the merger is to be effected through a change of stock. Other large companies are to be taken in later stages of the reorganization.

George J. Whelan, founder and dominating factor in United Cigar Stores, Union Tobacco and Tobacco Products, is understood to be desirous of relinquishing some of his duties.

The merger is intended to bring peace to the industry, which has been torn for nearly two years by price wars between manufacturers and between store owners. One of the most serious conditions in the industry is the recent inauguration of a cut rate cigarette prices by the United and Schulte chain stores.

Conditions, it is claimed, have gone from bad to worse with the death in the last year of the industry's two biggest figures—Russell and James B. Duke. Death was said to have interrupted their plans for peace. Part of their vast holdings are to be taken over by a new merger.

He was a sufferer from nervous

HIGH SCHOOL NEED IN MIDDLE SECTION OF CITY IS SHOWN

Only Two Buildings West of Grand, Report of Committee to Board Points Out.

A report of the Intermediate Schools Survey Committee of the Board of Education, adopted by the board May 28, when it voted to erect a new Central High School and a new intermediate school, shows clearly the plans and policy of the board for development of high school facilities. It was public today by President Blum-meyer.

The committee, of which Mrs.
Ellas Michael is chairman and which is continuing its survey, reported:

"A little reflection will lead to the conclusion that for the proper housing of white pupils of the ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth (high school) grades, immediate provision ought to be made for building a high school in the central zone of the city to accommodate the 1563 pupils in that zone.
If a high school building of 2500 capacity were located somewhere between Sarah street on the east, Lindell boulevard on the north, Kingshighway on the west, and Chouteau avenue on the south, it would at once afford the best accommodations possible to the pupils of that territory. It would do more than that; it would at once provide accessible high school accommodations for the 702 pupils in the southwest zone.

Plans for 50 Years Ahead.
"We have only to recall what we know of the character of the pupils which occupy this central zone and reflect upon the easy approach to it from the north, the south and the east, to become aware that the erection of this building will serve for 50 years as the most accessible high school to the greatest number of pupils of high school age and attainment.
It would solve the administrative problem of shifting high school groups by establishing a flexible zone with a high school of easy access, and it would satisfy the commendable desire to continue the historical Central High School, of which the city has a right to be proud, by thus restoring the name and tradition. Central High School would continue to be for 50 years the kind of school that it was for the first 50 years of its existence.
For some years, while the engineering problems of the southwest district are being solved, pupils of high school attainment residing in that zone would find an accessible high school in the central zone."

Central High, now 76 years old, was the first high school west of the Mississippi. Its building at Grand boulevard and Windsor place was ruined by the tornado of Sept. 29, 1927. Since then it has occupied the old Neumann High building at Garrison and Natural bridge avenues, an inconvenient place for many of the pupils. The board now is proposing to buy ground for a new Central from the city in Forest Park, near Kings-highway and Oakland avenue, but some public opposition has arisen to this use of the park.

Boundaries of School Zone.
By adopting the committee report, the board laid out the districts eventually to be fixed for the various high schools. It was guided by data on the number of high school pupils now living in each zone. The area which it is proposed to serve with the new Central High, Zone C, containing 1563 students, is bounded by Cass and Easton avenues on the north, Kingshighway on the west, Natural street between Kingshighway and Grand boulevard, and Mill Creek Valley, between Grand and Jefferson avenue, on the south, and Grand and Jefferson on the east.

SEAPLANE ALTITUDE MARK AWARDED TO U. S. NAVY FLYER

But German Airman Is Found to Have Surpassed Soucek's Record in Land Craft.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Establishment of a new world's seaplane altitude record by Lieut. Apollo Soucek of the Navy in his attempt Tuesday was announced today by the National Aeronautic Association after a check of his barograph by the Bureau of Standards. He exceeded by 560 feet the record of 27,995 made by Lieut. C. C. Champion of the Navy in the same Wright Apache plane two years ago.

Soucek recently set a new altitude record for land planes, attaining a height of 29,144 feet, but the honor was short-lived as a few days later a German flyer, Willy Neunhofer, pushed his plane upward to a new world record of 42,123 feet.

The naval flyer set the new record for seaplanes June 4, taking off at the naval air station here.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 7.—The International Aeronautic Federation yesterday accepted the altitude attained by Pilot Willy Neunhofer, German flyer, on May 26 as the world's altitude record, homologating his record of 12,739 meters (42,123 feet) and also approved the previous record established by Lieut. A. Soucek, United States Navy, May 8 at Washington, at 11,930 meters (39,144 feet). This beat the 11,710-meter mark set by Lieut. C. C. Champion in 1927.

JONES WANTS JUDGES CHOSEN TO SPECIALIZE IN DRY CASES

Author of New Liquor Law Offers Bill to Have President Appoint More Jurists.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Appointment of several judges whose duties would be confined almost exclusively to prohibition cases has been proposed by Senator Jones (Rep.), Washington, author of the new dry law.

Jones has introduced a bill authorizing the President to appoint as many as two Associate District Judges for any district whenever the volume of business demands it. The prohibition leader would have the duties of the Associate Judges confined to trying dry law prosecutions first, and civil cases in which the amount involved is less than $5000.

LIBERALS IN SASKATCHEWAN DEFEATED BY CONSERVATIVES

Tories, However, Apparently Lack Three Seats of Majority in Parliament.

By the Associated Press.

REGINA, Saskatchewan, June 7.—With returns still coming in, Conservative leaders today asserted they would control a majority in the next Saskatchewan Legislature. While only about two-thirds of the 63 seats had reported definite results, it was clear that the Liberal Government of Premier J. G. Gardiner had gone to defeat.

It appeared evident, however, that the Conservative group alone would be unable to command a majority over all in the Regina House. Even if the nine Conservatives leading on the face of incomplete figures were returned, the followers of Dr. J. T. M. Anderson would total only 29—three short of a majority in a Legislature of 63 seats. Deferred elections are to be held in two constituencies.

ERSKINE PREDICTS $2 WHEAT

Auto Manufacturer's Statement Strengthens Grain Prices.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Grain prices absorbed new strength today from a wave of bullish news, one factor of which was the opinion of Albert R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation that wheat might be lifted as high as $1.75 a bushel this year or even to $2. Erskine's statement, made in an interview in New York, based its optimism on the promise of Governmental relief to check price depressions.

Wheat opened 1/4c to 1 1/4c a bushel higher and gained a fraction more as commission house buying expanded. Besides Erskine's optimism there was unfavorable weather in the crop belt and a buoyant market at Liverpool to help the recovery of prices here.

GIRL KILLS SELF UNDER TRAIN

Leaps Onto Tracks Near Harrisburg (Ill.) After Quarrel in Auto.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HARRISBURG, Ill., June 7.—Following a quarrel during an automobile ride of four young persons of this city last night, Miss Opal Jones, 22 years old, threw herself in front of a Big Four passenger train and was killed.

The automobile was parked near the railroad and Miss Jones and her escort, Bradley Williams, were walking along the tracks when the train approached. Before Williams could reach her, she leaped in front of the train. She was brought to Harrisburg, but died before reaching the hospital.

FOUR YOUTHS ADMIT TO HOLDUPS IN MONTH

Two Brothers and Companion Identified as Drug Store Robbers.

Four accomplices in a series of robberies committed within the last month have been arrested and have admitted 10 holdups, according to Detective Sergeant Wren, in charge of the investigation.

They are Sylvester Sievers, 21 years old, who said he lived at 2132A South Fourth street; Deloris Sinters, 23, 1411 Salsbury street, and two brothers, Joseph, 21, and Fay Horton, 23, of 158 Victor street.

The Hortons and Sievers were identified and confessed robbing the drug store of William Gieseking, 2001 Cherokee street, taking $12, May 16, police said. Sievers and Joseph Horton admitted the $25 holdup, four days later, of John H. Mommel's drug store at 2753 Wyoming street, and the four said they participated in robbing Edward J. Miller, 3706 Iowa avenue, taking $7.60 as he passed along the street near his home May 25. The same day, Sinters and the Horton brothers attempted to hold up George Jokisch, grocer at 3611 North Eleventh street, from whom they fled after Fay Horton had been slashed with a knife.

Police are attempting to verify reports of six other robberies which the prisoners described. Some were not reported, including the $600 robbery of an Illinois man, Cat Knocks-Bottle Over, Frightens Robber Away.

The crash of a bottle knocked from the prescription case by a cat frightened a robber who was holding up Ralph Williams, proprietor of a drug store at 902 North Garrison avenue, at 9:30 o'clock last night. He ran from the store and escaped in an automobile. Williams described him as appearing to be a drug addict.

Jerry Beggs, 20 years old, a Cuban Negro, who said he came here from New York two days ago, and had been unable to find work, was captured by police last midnight while attempting to hide on a shelf in a drug store at 8034 North Broadway, which he had entered by raising a window with a screw driver. He had piled a quantity of merchandise in a box when Chester Schantz, a clerk living over the store, called police.

John H. Tolker, 3250 Pennsylvania avenue, was robbed of $8 at 10:20 p. m. when two armed men forced him into an alley between Miami and Winnebago streets as he walked south on Louisiana avenue.

CHARGES AGAINST A. A. OLIVER IN BANK THEFTS, DROPPED

Former Convict Had Been Accused in Indianapolis and Maplewood Robberies.

Three warrants against Alfred A. Oliver, former convict and a Richmond Heights real estate dealer, charging him with complicity in a bank robbery at Indianapolis and the holdup of the Citizens' State Bank of Maplewood March 28, were dismissed yesterday in Justice of the Peace Werremeyer's court in Clayton when it was disclosed that Gov. Caulfield denied a writ of extradition and when the cashier of the Maplewood bank asserted that the prisoner was not the man who robbed him.

Two warrants, one charging him with first degree robbery and the other with concealing stolen property in a safe deposit box, both in connection with the Maplewood bank holdup, were issued against him last Friday. The affidavits for the warrants were signed by Deputy Sheriff Arnold Willmann, Ralph S. Townsend, cashier of the bank at Maplewood, did not sign the affidavits, and said in court yesterday that he had never before seen Oliver.

Oliver, as has been told, served five years at Leavenworth for train robbery.

INTRODUCED TO BROTHER HE HAD SOUGHT 20 YEARS

Albert and David Torchin Meet in Chicago; Were Separated by Cosack Raid in Russia.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Twenty years ago pillaging Cosacks descended on a small Russian village, breaking up the Torchin family. Albert Torchin, separated from his parents, made his way to America. Later his brother, David, arrived, seeking his brother, finally abandoning the search when police reported Albert was dead.

Last night David Torchin stood in the lobby of the Congress Hotel, chatting with a friend who, like himself, had come here from Baltimore for the radio dealers' convention.

Another man strolled by. Torchin's friend recognized him as an acquaintance and called him over, introducing him. Thus after 20 years David and Albert Torchin, brothers, found each other.

KILLS NEIGHBOR AND SELF IN ROW OVER GARDEN WORK

Contoocook, N. H., Man Attacked With Tear Bombs by Police After Killing.
By the Associated Press.
Contoocook, N. H., June 7.—Ralph Conway, 49 years old, who shot and killed Ray Barton here yesterday, and was later found badly wounded in his home after police had bombarded the house with tear gas bombs, died in a hospital last night. A quarrel over Barton's working in a garden and disturbing Conway's sleep was said by Barton's widow to have led to the shooting. She said the quarrel had been going on for weeks.

Mrs. Barton said that when her husband returned home from work at noon Conway met him near the house. After a quarrel Conway shot Barton and fled to his home. Townspeople armed with rifles and pistols surrounded his home, while a call was sent to Concord for police. When the police arrived they threw tear gas bombs into the house and charged it. Conway was found in an upstairs room. Police say he shot himself.

PARLEY ON CHURCH ISSUE IN MEXICO TO BEGIN MONDAY

Two Prelates, One of Whom Is Said to Have Papal Commission, Due in Capital Tomorrow.

DETAILS ALREADY REPORTED DRAFTED

U. S. Ambassador Morrow on Way but His Expected Presence Is Said to Be a Coincidence.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, June 7.—Actual negotiations for settlement of Mexico's church-state problem are expected to begin here Monday morning between Mgr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, Archbishop of Michoacan, Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco, and Government officials.
Authoritative sources have disclosed that the two prelates, the former of whom is understood to have received a special papal commission for the task, are expected to arrive here tomorrow. United States Ambassador Morrow and Manuel Teller, Mexican Ambassador at Washington, will also be here, a fact labelled officially as a coincidence but which may believe to have a direct connection with the negotiations. Morrow has been foremost in his desire that the problem that has so long agitated Mexico be solved.
Exact nature of the negotiations between the Government and the Roman Catholic Church has not been divulged, but it is known that church officials wasted no time in instituting them after the recent statement of President Portes Gil indicating willingness to consider a settlement. Some even said the understanding had already been reached and that the proceeding this next week would be largely in the nature of mere ratification.
Old Problem in Mexico.
Although the religious problem has been acute for only three years it really goes back much further than that. The Mexican Constitution of 1857, fathered by Benito Juarez, contained provisions for nationalization of church property and minimization of ecclesiastical privilege.
The Juarez Government was never strong enough to enact and enforce legislation making the provisions effective, and with the accession of Porfirio Diaz as President shortly, the church regained its old influence, this continuing until the overthrow of Diaz in 1910 by Francisco I. Madero.
The Mexican Constitution of 1917, adopted during the administration of Venustiano Carranza, contained the old provisions, made even more rigorous. During the reconstruction administration of Gen. Alvaro Obregon (1920-24), they were allowed to pass unnoticed, and it was not until 1926, in the administration of President Calles, that enforcement was attempted.

What Blocked Settlement.
There might have been a settlement then save for one provision, that requiring the clergy to register with the Mexican Government. This the ecclesiastics protested against, finding the Government incapable of the episcopate finally ordered the priests to abandon their churches, their order taking effect Aug. 31, 1926.

Since then, the only Catholic services in Mexico have been secret. Those church buildings and cathedrals which have remained open bore placards stating they were the property of the Mexican Government. Many priests left the country, others were deported.
A Catholic nun, mother Concepcion Aceveda de la Lata, was convicted as "intellectual author" of the assassination of President-elect Obregon last summer and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. She is now at the Mexican island prison colony on Isla Tres Marias, off the Western Mexican coast.

Ambassador Morrow in San Antonio on Way to Mexico.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 7.—Dwight W. Morrow, United States Ambassador to Mexico, was on his way to Mexico City today to resume his duties after attending the wedding of his daughter Anne and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at the Morrow home at Englewood, N. J. The Ambassador and his party spent the night here aboard the Morrow private car, attached to a Mexico-bound train.

Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, Apostolic delegate of Pope Pius XI, was reported on the train en route to a conference with President Portes Gil of Mexico. Bishop Pascual Loranco of Tabasco was reported to be with him. They were not found, however, and the Ambassador did not confirm the report of their presence. Miguel Lugoarte of the Morrow party said he saw the Archbishop at Palestine, Tex., but had not seen him since.

ERIE, Pa.—The Lake Erie fish catch has decreased sharply during the past year. The total catch in 1928 was only 1,957,820 pounds, valued at $253,424. Until recent years the catch always exceeded 20,000,000 pounds and was considered a "million-dollar industry."

PAROLE ON LIFE TERM FOR KILLING DRY INFORMER

Seward, convicted of Herculanum (Mo.) Murder, Makes Third Application.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 7.—
State Board of Pardons and Commissions has under advisement the application for a parole of James

Seward, who is serving a life term in the penitentiary for the murder of Andrew Deck of Herculanum, Mo., a volunteer prohibition informer, on Feb. 26, 1921, following a special hearing yesterday. Seward's previous applications for parole, in 1925 and 1928, were denied.

Parole Commissioner Mosby said no new evidence had been offered at yesterday's hearing, but that, if the board decides to take any action, it may be some time before it is announced. State Senator Mc-Cawley of Carthage and Albert S.

Ennis of Festus were Seward's attorneys before the board. They have been working on his behalf for years, convinced of his inno-

Seward maintains he was employed as a former pugilist to "beat up" Deck for $25, but that some other man fired the fatal shot.
His lawyers declared before the board yesterday that the bullet which killed Deck differed from that used in Seward's revolver.

They also emphasized the fact that Deck was not a prohibition agent but an informer. Six other men were charged with the murder.
One was freed for turning State's evidence and the others were acquitted. Seward has a good record in the prison and recently obtained a diploma from a correspondence school.

DISPUTE OVER EXCLUDING NEGRO STUDENTS AT PROM

Abandonment of Evanston (Ill.)
High School Affair Threatened as a Result.

EVANSTON, Ill., June 7.—The junior prom, chief social event of the Evanston Township High School commencement season, was threatened today to be abandoned because of a difference of opinion whether 15 Negro students should be permitted to attend.

There are 700 members of the junior and senior classes eligible for the function. Thomas Lord, president of the Evanston Country Club at whose clubhouse the prom was planned for June 14, informed school authorities that the clubhouse would not be available, if the Negroes were to be present.

Teachers' Association, have urged the Negro students not to insist upon attending. Mrs. Goodhue told them a special affair, exclusively for them, would be arranged.

Juanita Beck, one of the Negro students, told Mrs. Goodhue that the Negroes "resent an attempt to discriminate against a socially and will not accept a special affair."

AMANY SEEKS NEW REPORT ON PROBLEM OF MINORITIES at Madrid Meeting of League Council Objects to Survey Presented to Parley.

MADRID, June 7.—The Council of the League of Nations, meeting today, as a committee to consider the minorities report of a special subcommittee, continued its deliberations today.

Dr. Von Schubert, the German representative, objected to Germany's to the minorities report and asked that a new report be drafted. Raulo Dandurand, the Canadian representative, thereupon proposed that discussion of the minorities question be postponed until September. Foreign Minister Briand of France then intervened and consideration of the report continued.

Both Germany and Canada are particularly interested in the minorities report, as both submitted proposals which, it is understood, were for the most part disapproved by the special subcommittee.

MOVE TO COMPLY WITH HOOVER'S
DRY PLAN MADE

Senator Jones Submits Measure to Name Joint Committee to Work Out Enforcement Transfer.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—Prohibition today was once again a major subject of consideration in the legislative and executive branches of the Government.

Moves were already under way at the Capitol to comply with President Hoover's request for appointment of a joint congressional committee to join with administrative groups for the preparation of legislation for the reorganization and unification of prohibition enforcement machinery in the Department of Justice. He wants to use such legislation enacted at the regular session of Congress in December.

One of the agencies which will co-operate with that committee, the President's new national commission for law enforcement, already has heard Secretary Mellon, now chiefly responsible for administration of the prohibition laws, and Attorney-General Mitchell, whose department is to become the principal enforcement agency under the plan.

They were the first to be heard in the commission's contemplated two-year investigation of general enforcement and observance, presents their views behind closed doors at the opening session of its second meeting, which was confronted today with a study of crime statistics presented by Mitchell.

Work Already Under Way.
The President's message drawing Congress into his enforcement and observance program, disclosed that through his Cabinet members, and the inter-departmental committee which was organized some time ago to make a preliminary study of the situation, the administration was already prepared with a fairly comprehensive plan for the transfer of enforcement machinery to the Justice Department.

The first move of Congress to fit into the program followed receipt of the President's message with the introduction of a resolution by Senator Jones, (Rep.) of Washington, a dry leader, to provide for the appointment of a committee of three Senators and four Representatives to work out the comprehensive legislative program suggested. This resolution will be taken up by the Judiciary Committee Monday, and comments on both sides of the Capitol have indicated that it will meet with little opposition.

The work of the inter-departmental committee as well as the findings of the Law Enforcement Commission will be at its disposal, and the task will keep its members in Washington much of the summer. As administration officials view the problem, that task will involve an extensive study of existing laws and regulations, together with consideration of Governmental policies relating to the coast guard and customs services of the Treasury and the immigration inspection service of the Labor Department, as well as the present prohibition prosecution machinery of the Justice Department.

The Congressional Committee will be called upon to consider not only the advisability and means of transferring the prohibition enforcement work to the Justice Department, but also the problem of what to do about the issuance of industrial alcohol permits. It has been suggested that this division of the present prohibition unit of the Treasury might be transferred to the Commerce Department, but the importance of its work from an enforcement standpoint has been emphasized by statements that diversion of industrial alcohol from legal channels is one of the chief sources of supply for the bootleg trade.

The working out of the program will call for a considerable amount of legislation, a fact which Mr.
Hoover undoubtedly recognized in deciding to inject the prohibition situation into the special session of Congress in order to get an early start on the preliminary work. Political observers see in the program itself and in the reception given the President's message in both wet and dry groups clear indications that prohibition is likely to be one of the most voluminously discussed topics of the next Congress.

Hawes Opposes Secrecy.
A demand for open hearings by the law enforcement commission was made in the Senate by Senator Hawes (Dem.) of Missouri, who asserted that secret hearings "will defeat the object of the commission and destroy confidence in the thoroughness of its work or the impartiality of its conclusion."

Commending on the President's message, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick (Rep.) of Illinois, said she was in favor of his recommendations.

"If we are going to enact such legislation we should do it at once," she said. "The quicker the better."

Representative Dyer (Rep.) of Missouri, said he thought President Hoover's unit suggestion was a good idea, "but I do not believe that we can pass any such legislation at a special session."

Dyer, a member of the House Judiciary Committee, which will consider the proposal, said the units might function better under the Justice Department.

Following is the text of Mr.

Hoover's message:
"To the Congress of the United States:
"In order to secure the utmost expedition in the reorganization and concentration of responsibility in administration of the Federal bureau connected with prohibition enforcement so greatly needed to improve their effectiveness, I recommend that the Congress appoint a joint select committee to make an immediate study of these matters and to formulate recommendations for consideration at the next regular session.

"I shall be glad to appoint a committee from the departments to cooperate with such a committee of the Congress. The National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement will also co-operate through their studies of the departmental organization.

"The subject involves the transfer of parts of various bureaus and agencies from certain departments to others, and it includes as well the necessity for the unifika-tion and strengthening of our border patrols both in connection with prohibition and illegal entry of aliens.

"As the question embraces numerous laws and regulations in several bureaus, it will require extensive consideration, which if given jointly by such committees of the Congress and the departments prior to the regular session, will save many months of delay."

Capital Puzzled Over Dry Policy of British Envoy

Sir Esme Howard Has Served Liquor Since Offering to Forego Diplomatic Privilege —Attaches Decline to Be Specific.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Another day has passed and still social Washington doesn't know—definitely and officially, at any rate —whether the British embassy actually is going to be dry. Diplomatic and official Washington, meanwhile, seems to be determined not to worry about the question.

The mystery that is puzzling the unofficial contingent seems to arise out of remarks by attaches of the embassy to the effect that published stories based on reports that the Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, had decided to import no more liquor, were "not entirely accurate."

The attaches refused to be specific, and it is generally recognized that when an individual trained in the language of diplomacy stops with such a phrase as "not entirely accurate," he can mean almost anything, from disapproval of a minor and privileges of diplomats and recognized the liquor importations as one of them.

And a third is that most members of the diplomatic corps feel that they are not free to relinquish that privilege without specific consent from their own Governments, which is not likely to be sought unless the State Department requests such action.

TEXAS WATCHES FOR FRUIT FLY

AUSTIN, Tex. — Housewives can play an important part in preventing the spread into Texas of the Mediterranean fruit fly, which has resulted in an importation restriction being placed by the state against Florida citrus fruits, is the belief of J. M. Del Curto, chief entomologist of the State Department of Agriculture. Del Curto is in charge of the field force of 13 men which has maintained a watch for appearances of fruit fly larvae in shipments made from Florida to Texas before the quarantine na-came effective.

Most Florida fruit will go into homes for consumption and housewives are well able to detect infested oranges or grapefruit, which are especially subject to attack.
Indications of infestation are the softening of fruit as a whole, Del Curto explained, or bleeding under slight pressure. All fruit found to be infested should be destroyed, he declared. Contrary to the usual belief, the wormy fly does not render fruit poisonous if eaten, Del Curto said.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU AT AIR FIELD PLANNED

Commission Votes to Request Government to Give Information to Pilots.

The Municipal Airport Commission yesterday voted to request the Government to establish a weather observatory at Lambert-St. Louis for the information of pilots. The weather forecaster Hayes informed the Commission that the Government would install the necessary equipment and maintain the service without charge if suitable quarters were provided. A building 30 feet square is sufficient, Hayes said. It was suggested that the newly erected control building, which has an observatory on top, would be suitable. The control building has been leased temporarily to Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc. however, and in the event the Government is willing to install a station immediately, another location will be selected.

The Department of Commerce now is completing a radio station on Natural Bridge road, near the flying field, where weather reports from other sections of the country would be received and transmitted to the airport by teletype. It is planned to have a similar communication between the proposed weather station and the broadcasting unit, so that pilots on the way to St. Louis may receive reports on condition here.

The Commission voted to lease 13 additional acres of land at the northeast corner of the airport to the Curtis-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co. The concern, which makes the Curtis-Robinson plane, now occupies eight acres. A $200,000 addition to the present plant is to be started this month to house the production of the "Thrush," a six-place cabin plane recently developed. Rentals at the airport are on the basis of 6 per cent a year on a valuation of $1000 an acre.

Expenditures of $12,000 was authorized for experiments in the construction of runways at the airport. The purpose of the tests is to determine the best material for runways, no standard construction tables being available.

AUTO DRIVER IS INDICTED

Accused of Manslaughter in Causing Woman's Death.

An indictment charging manslaughter has been voted by the grand jury against Robert Gillen, 35 years old, an electrician of 3566 Cote Brillante avenue, who was driving an automobile that struck and killed Mrs. Elizabeth Nugent, 65, of 3621 Gasconade street, at Grand boulevard and Gasconade street, May 29.

Mrs. Nugent had just stepped from the east curb of Grand boulevard, with the apparent intention of boarding a north-bound street car. Gillen took her to a hospital, where she died the same day.

ROADHOUSES CAUSE DIVORCE

Edwin Steinkamp Tells of Wife's Life for Roadhouse

Edwin Steinkamp, 4346 Gibson avenue, obtained a divorce yesterday from Mrs. Gertrude Steinkamp on the ground of general indignities. He told Judge Taylor in the Court of Domestic Relations that his wife, from the first months of their marriage, insisted that he take her to a roadhouse finally causing their separation. "Any particular roadhouse?" Judge Taylor asked. "No," Steinkamp answered. "She just wanted to go to some roadhouse. She never wanted to stay at home or do any of the housework. I even had to cook the meals at times."

Steinkamp said they separated Dec. 17, 1927, when she tried to persuade him to go to a roadhouse. They were married Jan. 12, 1925. Mrs. Steinkamp did not contest.

HITS HIGHWAYMAN ON CHIN

Edward Ratty Effectively Replies to Attempt to Hold Him Up.

When two men stepped from an automobile with drawn pistols and tried to hold him up on Morgan road near Arsenal street last night, Edward Ratty of 2338 Portis avenue, responded with a blow to the chin of one of the highwaymen. The men pocketed their weapons and quickly drove away.

Edward McGrath, 7418 Alabama avenue, reported that he fired two shots at a man who woke him up at midnight by trying to remove the screen from his window from the outside. The man ran away.

BOTTLE FULL DESPITE THREE AGENTS' DRINKS

U. S. Jury to Which This Is Pointed Out Acquits Woman Charged With Sale.

After brief deliberation juries freed a man and a woman, charged with violation of the prohibition laws, in Federal Judge Farris' court yesterday.

Mrs. Minnie Nejeleski, 45 years old, former proprietor of Step Inn roadhouse, 2666 Weber road, St. Louis County, was found not guilty of illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, after her attorney had displayed the pint container of whiskey prohibition agents said they had bought from her and called attention to the fact that it was full to capacity. Agents Padfield, Knapp and Bitterfield had testified that they had taken drinks from the bottle.

Padfield, the paper products salesman who turned prohibition agent and trapped her former customers into selling him liquor, and the other agents, who were accompanied by Mrs. Padfield, testified to buying a round of highballs in Mrs. Nejeleski's place Nov. 14 last. Padfield drinking his wife's highball as well as his own. Then, according to the testimony of the agents, they bought a pint of whiskey from Mrs. Nejeleski.

Asked as to his qualifications as a judge of liquor, Agent Knapp said he had taken his first drink when he was 15 years old and thought he knew what it was like.

Mrs. Nejeleski denied the sale, declaring that her husband, known as Jake Sunley, now serving 60 days in jail for liquor law violation, might have made it, without her knowledge.

Agent Padfield has reported Mrs. Nejeleski's resort as a persistent violator of the Volstead act, and application for a padlock order for one year is pending in Federal Court.

When Mrs. Nejeleski, on hearing the verdict, started to shake hands with the jurors, Judge Farris stopped her with the remark: "It seems no one is entitled to thanks in this case from you or anybody else."

Charles L. Cave, 28, 4110 Delmar boulevard, was found not guilty of having been in illegal possession of liquor in the rear of a saloon at 250 Lemay ferry road Aug. 12, 1927. Ralph Stone, who, according to testimony, was found with Cave capping beer bottles, pleaded guilty of possession last September and Cave's counsel attributed the possession offense to him. Cave, since his arrest, has been chauffeur for former Federal Judge Henry S. Priest.

Persons who pleaded guilty and their fines and sentences were as follows: William Kumpf, proprietor of a saloon at 2401 Chippewa street, $440 for possession; Henry J. Kuna, 1932 South Eleventh street, $440 for possession; and John Riley, bartender in a saloon at Bach avenue and Big Bend road, St. Louis County, 60 days in jail for sale.

Mr. Shafer announcing his withdrawal from the ministry and membership in the Methodist Episcopal church. The Rev. Mr. Shafer is 58 years old and came into the Missouri Conference of the Methodist Church in 1903.

Boy Gets Baseballs from Ruth.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Billy Day, 10 years old, today reaped a harvest of 12 baseballs photographed by Babe Ruth. Billy and his friends were playing in the alley last week, and someone hit a home run out of bounds. The neighborhood into whose garden the ball fell, refused to surrender it, and the dispute finally was threatened out in court, where Billy won the decision. Babe Ruth heard of it and sent the dozen balls. Billy distributed them among members of his team.

Mrs. Jehling's skull was fractured and apparently she had tripped over a coiled clothesline as she descended the stairs with a bundle of clothes. An inquest will be held.

After the plea of guilty was entered, J. W. Buffington, Prosecuting Attorney, recommended the 40-year sentence. Senator Cave, however, asked for a lighter punishment and depositions from residents of Grapevine, Tex., where
Dunn formerly resided, were read.
All testified as to his previous good reputation.

In announcing sentence, Judge
Hughes said he felt Dunn should not receive a lesser sentence than Bruck, who, although not having
the support of such a reputation
as that of Dunn, had been an orphan and compelled to make his own way. Dunn, said Judge Hughes, having had greater advantages than Bruck, should not be shown greater clemency.

TAXPAYERS LEAGUE FILES
SUIT AGAINST COUNTY COURT Seeks to Prohibit Jurisdiction in $10,000,000 Road Bond Issue.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 7.—
The petitions for writs or prohibition to keep the St. Louis County Court from exercising jurisdiction
over the county's $10,000,000 road
bond issue and $1,000,000 hospital
bond issue, which the Taxpayers' League announced last week it would file, were filed in the Supreme Court of Missouri today.
Details of the suits were published in the Post-Dispatch last week. The plaintiffs are the Taxpayers' League, which is active in county politics, and a group of seven county property owners
headed by George W. Baumbach, chairman of the Executive Committee of the league. The defendants are Judges Wehmer, Garner and Holt, comprising the County Court, or administrative body.
The chief allegations are that the court failed to comply with the law by appointing a County Highway Commission and a Board of Trustees to create and manage the hospital. Use of road bond funds to build streets in suburbs also is attacked. The reply of the County Court to the allegations in the suit was published Wednesday.

Frank Schwenk, Sr., one of those named as plaintiffs in the suits,
appeared before the County Court
today and declared his name had been used without his knowledge and consent. He asserted he would ask the Supreme Court to withdraw his name. Schwenk is an apple grower at Allenton, Counsel who filed the suit could not be reached today.

and Mrs. Stevens, who was run over by an automobile driven by Wright, Oct. 29 last. The child was crossing highway 66 near Altamont Park, Franklin County, when he was struck. He died two days later.

The protesting group has or-violent editorials criticizing the Government for countenancing police violence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 7.—
The petitions for writs or prohibition to keep the St. Louis County Court from exercising jurisdiction
over the county's $10,000,000 road
bond issue and $1,000,000 hospital
bond issue, which the Taxpayers'
League announced last week it would file, were filed in the Supreme Court of Missouri today.
Details of the suits were published in the Post-Dispatch last week. The plaintiffs are the Taxpayers' League, which is active in county politics, and a group of seven county property owners
headed by George W. Baumbach,
chairman of the Executive Committee of the league. The defendants are Judges Wehmer, Garner and Holt, comprising the County Court, or administrative body.
The chief allegations are that the
court failed to comply with the law by appointing a County Highway Commission and a Board of Trustees to create and manage the hospital. Use of road bond funds
to build streets in suburbs also is attacked. The reply of the County Court to the allegations in the suit was published Wednesday.

Frank Schwenk, Sr., one of those
named as plaintiffs in the suits,
appeared before the County Court
today and declared his name had been used without his knowledge
and consent. He asserted he would ask the Supreme Court to withdraw his name. Schwenk is an apple grower at Allenton, Counsel
who filed the suit could not be reached today.

The case grew out of the killing of Clifford, 6-year-old son of Mr.

over by an automobile driven by Wright, Oct. 29 last. The child was

POLICE CHARGE MOB, 20 HURT

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 7.— Twenty persons were injured, some seriously, as a result of the charge made last night by mounted police upon a meeting of more than 20-one persons who paraded through the main streets of Bogota against the summary removal of Mayor Luis Aguato Cuervo.
The protesting group has organized a boycott of municipal enterprises. Newspapers published violent editorials criticizing the Government for countenancing police violence.

Like sentence was imposed on Dunn, Mo., June 7.—Without his recent plea of not guilty, Tom Dunn, 20-year-old former college student of Dallas, was one of the three men who robbed the First National Bank here Jan. 3, yesterday.
Dunn was found guilty and sentenced Judge W. C. Hughes in Circuit court to 40 years in the penitentiary.

son of his constitutional privilege as a member of the State Assembly.
After the plea of guilty was entered, J. W. Buffington, Prosecuting Attorney, recommended the 40-year sentence. Senator Cave,
however, asked for a lighter punishment and depositions from residents of Grapevine, Tex., where
Dunn formerly resided, were read.
All testified as to his previous
good reputation.

In announcing sentence, Judge
Hughes said he felt Dunn should
not receive a lesser sentence than Bruck, who, although not having
the support of such a reputation
as that of Dunn, had been an orphan and compelled to make his own way. Dunn, said Judge Hughes, having had greater ad-
be shown greater clemency.

LINCOLN STEFFENS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Charging Cruelty, Wife Says
Author Objected to Her Attending Dances.

By the Associated Press.

SALINAS, Cal., June 7.—Joseph Lincoln Steffens, author and lecturer, has been sued for divorce here. Mrs. Steffens, whose pen name is Ella Winters, charged extreme cruelty and said her husband objected to her attending dances or having other social relations. She also asserted that Steffens informed her he did not care for her.

The Steffens have lived in the artists' colony of Carmel, Cal., in semi-retirement, with their young son, Peter. They were married in Paris in 1924.

Recently rumors of an impending divorce were heard, but met prompt denial from friends of the pair.

Steffens is 65 years old. Several months ago he wrote a magazine article on "How It Feels to Be a Father at Sixty."

Mrs. Steffens, who is said to be in her 30's, replied the following month with an article entitled "How It Feels to Be Married to an Old Man."

Steffens also is known as a former newspaperman and magazine writer. About 20 years ago he wrote a series of articles on graft in American cities. One of these articles was on the boodle cases in St. Louis, which was prosecuted by the late Joseph W. Folk.

NEW CAMPAIGN ON LIQUOR RUNNERS AT DETROIT BEGUN

Concentration of Customs, Dry Agents and Coast Guard Ordered in Effort to Stop Smuggling.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—In another effort to end liquor running across the Canadian border in the Detroit area, the Treasury has ordered a concentration of customs and prohibition agents and coast guardsmen to start an extensive campaign against liquor smugglers there.

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary, said every available agent from other sections of the United States would be sent into the area under command of E. R. Norwood, a veteran customs agent, who has been in charge of the territory in Northern New York.

The decision for a concentrated effort to break up liquor smuggling from Windsor and other Canadian points was reached yesterday at a conference in Lowman's office. Admiral P. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard; J. M. Doran, Prohibition Commissioner, and Frank Dow, acting Customs Commissioner, were present.

It was the outcome of reports that large quantities of liquor are still being brought into the United States from Canada and the recent investigation in the customs border patrol at Detroit, which resulted in indictment of 22 agents and the conviction of 11.

Carey Ferguson resigned as Collector of Customs at Detroit Wednesday. He was not involved in any way in the charges made against the customs agents, Lowman said, and resigned to enter private business.

As soon as the conference adjourned, orders went forth for agents to concentrate at Detroit and the coast guard ordered all available small boats from all sections of the country to be sent to Lakes Huron, Erie and St. Clair. Already there are 154 new customs agents working in the Detroit area, sent there after the investigation into charges that members of the border patrol were conniving with smugglers to let liquor cross the Detroit River.

TWO INDICTED FOR ASSAULT IN BURNING OF COTTAGES

Madison County, Ill., Grand Jury Returns 15 True Bills at Edwardsville.
Donald Graham, 25 years old, of El Dorado, Ill., and William Doyle, 25, of Alton, were charged with the assault on two families and the burning of their cottages at Chouteau Slough, in Madison County, on June 4, in five indictments returned this morning by the Madison County grand jury at Edwardsville, Ill. The grand jury returned a total of 15 indictments.

One of the indictments against Graham and Doyle charged them with assault with intent to kill Mrs. Frieda Forcade, who was forced to run into the water of the slough, while two men, alleged to have been Graham and Doyle shot at her. Four other indictments charge them with assault with intent to rob Mary Smith, Connie Huckaby, Florence Tremaine and Christ Domalis.

Two men were arrested when their car broke down near the scene of the assaults, shortly afterward, and later they were identified by several of the victims.

Claude Hagler and William Ferguson are indicted, charged with the theft of an automobile and some tires from George L. Stethem of Granite City, April 21. Charles Shafer of Granite City was indicted on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, and John Henry Nowlan was indicted on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident at Highland, Ill., on May 19. The remaining seven indictments, all of a minor nature, are withheld until arrest of the defendants.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—Protest against the action of France in requiring purchase of one French film for every four American films imported was made in the Senate today by Senator Shortridge (Rep., California). Shortridge declared the action was an "undefensible interference with American commerce" and that "if our great moving picture industry is discriminated against we shall find ways and means of convincing France of the unwisdom of her act."

"I protest against her attempt to force American producers to buy French films at arbitrary prices and regardless of their exhibition value," he said.

COMMITTEE OF 27 TO STUDY COOK COUNTY TAX SHORTAGE

Business Men Will Seek Plan to Keep Chicago Government From Bankruptcy.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 7.—Twenty-seven business men, aroused by the disclosure that Chicago, Cook

County and other local governments face bankruptcy due to delay in collecting 1928 taxes, have been named as a Citizens' Advisory Committee to see what can be done in the emergency.

The men were named at a conference of representatives of the County Board, the City Council and heads of the county and city Efficiency Departments. Bankers, lawyers and merchants are included among the 27.

The conference yesterday pointed out that 1928 taxes would not be collected until the summer of 1929, a delay that none of the local governments can withstand because of strained credits.

MAFIA'S 15-YEAR REIGN OF TERROR IS OVER

Sicily Scatters 150 of Ring-leaders Among Jails and Penitentiaries.

By the Associated Press.
TERMINI IMERSE, Sicily, June 7.—The reign of terror of the Mafia is over. As Prefect Mori begins to scatter among the jails and penitentiaries of this island 150 of the last group of the Mafia ring-leaders, recently convicted and sentenced by the courts, Sicily is settling down to a life of production and peace.

Romantic figures, who after all, were only cattle thieves and murderers on a great scale, the Mafia for 15 years held Sicily paralyzed with terror. North and South America also felt the influence of the dread organization. Internal feuds within the criminal society, in the United States. Letters from the Americas were introduced during the trial showing that a fair percentage of the cattle stolen by the Mafia was sent to the Western Hemisphere.

The extent of the crimes of the present group of the Mafia was so vast that the court labored for nine months merely hearing the evidence and arguments. The jury was out for seven days, considering 30,000 questions and returning 7000 answers to them.

The Mafia group, just dissolved, is believed to be the last of the notorious Sicilian organization. It was founded in 1913 at Mistretta, primarily to carry on family and district feuds. It immediately began to break its will on the countryside by driving off the cattle and extorting money. Human life, too, was of small value to the Mafia, much less, in fact, than that of cattle.

Selling agents were established in Palermo, Catania, Castelbuono, Messina, Niessia, Caronia, Polizzi, Mezzosola, Corleone, San Stefano, Gangi, Capizzi, Agira, Villafraia, San Mauro, Alia and Mazara and documents introduced at the trial indicated that there were agents in America.

At the head of this vast organization was the attorney, Artaleva, a man of influence, skill and brains. His office was the general headquarters and the high court of the Mafia. Here it was determined what amount of tribute should be levied. Artaleva himself was the justice.

Betrayed by Member.
The Mistretta section of the Mafia was betrayed by one of their own number. Almost immediately thereafter he paid for his desertion with his life.

Prefect Mori had enough information to enable him to proceed. With the help of the Government at Rome, he rounded up the Mafia and brought 149 of the ring-leaders before the courts. Artaleva was among them, but he died at the beginning of the trial. Of the remainder, all but a mere handful were convicted. Some were sentenced to the penitentiary for 23 years.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD BUYS SHARE IN BUS LINE

Greyhound System to Use Stations and Other Facilities Under New Policy.

In line with its policy of coordinating rail, motorbus and airplane transportation, the Pennsylvania Railroad today announced the acquisition of a substantial interest in the Greyhound Lines Inc., a long-distance passenger bus transport company operating east of the Mississippi River.

The bus lines, which parallel the Pennsylvania's main lines through most of its territory, will be operated as a part of the railroad system, sharing its stations and other facilities where convenient.
Ultimately, it is the intention to enable passengers to travel by bus by day and transfer to railroad sleeping cars at night.

As is known, the Transconti-ental Air Transport and the Pennsylvania plan to begin joint rail and plane service between New York and Los Angeles on a 48-hour schedule beginning July 4.

The first change in the Greyhound service will be made Monday when the two lines between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, operating over the Lincoln Highway and the William Penn Highway, will be extended by the addition of 17 new buses. These buses will handle only through business, for a fare of $5 each way, as compared with a railroad fare of $12.50, and will leave short haul business to the independently operated bus companies. Tentative plans call for similar expansion of service on other Greyhound lines which run into Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, Baltimore and New York.

$1,500,000 LAUNDRY PACKAGE

Insurance Firm Uses Camouflage in Transporting Securities.
By the Associated Press.
FRANKFORT, Ky., June 7.—A $1,500,000 laundry package was delivered by automobile from Louisville to the State Insurance Department here Wednesday. The bundle, closely wrapped and bearing a slip checking its contents as being shirts, socks and other wearing apparel, contained negotiable securities that were brought here by representatives of a Kentucky insurance firm to deposit in accordance with the law requiring insurance companies to keep a specified amount of securities in the State vaults.

The laundry bundle wrinkle as a new method for transporting $1-500,000 for 67 miles was said to be the idea of the insurance company representatives who evolved the plan under the belief that such an apparently worthless package would camouflage its real worth from any bandit.

45 MINUTES FOR MAIL TO REACH AIR FIELD

Postmaster Suggests Time Could Be Cut by Using Gyroscopic Plane.

Air mail time between the post-office and plane side at Lambert-St. Louis field is as brief as possible under present conditions but long enough to constitute a problem for future solution, Postmaster Michener said today.

It takes about an hour and 15 minutes for a letter to go from a downtown air mail box to the plane for its three-hour flight to Chicago, he pointed out. Forty-five minutes is allowed for the mail truck to go from the main post office, at Eighteenth and Walnut streets, to the flying field. The other 30 minutes is employed in the closing air mail collection from the boxes in the business section.

The pneumatic tube system, from airport to post-office discussed recently by Assistant Postmaster General Glover as a future necessity, would cut the delivery time to a minimum, Michener said, but under present arrangements would have to be operated on a contract basis with patentees of the tubes which would make the cost per mile excessive.

Prior to the World War mail was relayed through pneumatic tubes between the offices at Third street and Washington avenue, Eighth and Olive streets, and the main office but this system was abandoned because trucks could afford efficient service at less cost.

Establishment of a small plane shuttle service between Lambert-St. Louis field and Forest Park would cut at least 10 minutes from the time required for delivery to the mail plane, Postmaster Michener estimated.

Delivery might be expedited in the future, he said, by use of the gyroscopic plane, which could land and take off on small areas. Such areas could be found, he said, near the downtown district.

Fewer Crossings.

A total of 390 dangerous railroad grade crossings were eliminated from the Federal aid highway system of the United States with in the last year. Since 1917, upwards of 4291 crossings have been eliminated in the drive to make highways safer for motorists who use them daily.

RESCUES TWO JONESBORO BOYS

PARAGOULD, Ark., June 7.—Will Dan Josler and another youth of Jonesboro were rescued from drowning last week by Eugene Amos of this city, who is attending a Boy Scout training camp near Jonesboro.

Josler and the other youth were in swimming. Josler started to go down, the other boy came to his rescue, and both boys clinched. Amos plunged into the pool and separated the two boys. Both were saved.

TRIAL IN CASE OF DEPUTY ACCUSED OF KILLING STUDENT

Jury Fails to Reach Verdict Against Officer for Shooting Abington (Va.) Youth.

ABINGTON, Va., June 7.—A trial was declared yesterday in the case of James Grove, Deputy Sheriff, indicted for the murder of J. W. Kendrick, 16-year-old Emory and Henry College student, last May 6. The jury failed to agree on a verdict and the case was set for retrial at the next term of court.

Grove was jointly indicted with Deputy Sheriff W. D. Worley and Policeman James McReynolds for the murder of Kendrick. The state charged the three officers fired upon an automobile occupied by Kendrick and two other young men, Paul Phelps and Sterling Dut-

MINORITY REPORT SAYS SENATE SHOULD MAKE TEXTILE INQUIRY

Wheeler to Fight Move to Refer Matter to Trade and Tariff Commissions.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 7.—Declaring that the Federal Trade and Tariff commissions have no authority to investigate labor troubles in the textile industry, a minority report of the Senate Manufacturers Committee, filed with the Senate yesterday, recommended that the inquiry be made by the committee itself.

The report, which was prepared by Senator Wheeler (Dem.) Montana, who proposed the investigation, was in direct conflict with the majority report written by Senator Hale (Rep.) Maine, which suggested that the inquiry be referred to the two commissions.

Wheeler announced that he would oppose adoption of the Hale recommendation and a fight on the floor of the Senate over the two proposals is in prospect. The minority report reviewed testimony taken in hearings before the committee which, it declared, showed that "for women workers Alabama has no limit on the hours of labor." Preliminary investigation, the report continued, "shows that child labor for children of 14 and over is almost universal in Southern cotton mill villages because the wages paid the average adult will not support a family in decency without the children's wages."

OKLAHOMA PASTORS' SCHOOL

By the Associated Press. OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok.—The 1929 session of the Oklahoma Pastors' School of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, will begin at Epworth Church here Monday, June 10, and will end June 21. Faculty members will include leaders from the East and West Oklahoma conferences.

The school, which is one of a church-wide system, is under the management of the board of missions, the Sunday school board, the Epworth League board and the board of education of the Oklahoma conference, in co-operation with the general boards.

LANDS HELD, SULTAN'S SON SEEKS $50,000,000

Prince Abdul Kadir, His Fortune Gone, Sues Britain and Oil Concern.

BUDAPEST, June 7.—Prince Abdul Kadir, son of the late Sultan of Turkey, Abdul Hamid, is suing the British Government and the Turkish National Oil Development Co. of Mosul for $10,000,000 (approximately $50,000,000). The Prince, once worth millions of dollars, but now almost penniless, demands this sum as compensation for the confiscation as crown lands of vast properties in Mesopotamia and elsewhere belonging to Abdul Hamid.

Abdul Kadir also has begun suit against the Greek Government for restoration of the famous Alatine Palace, bought by Abdul Hamid in 1918, when the Sultan was forced by the Young Turk movement to abdicate.

"My father spent millions of dollars out of his own funds in embellishing and renovating the Alatine Palace," said Abdul Kadir. "This, together with vast mining properties owned by him in the Sionica area, must be returned to the Sultan's rightful heirs."

Abdul Kadir and the former Turkish imperial family have retained Alexandre Millonand, ex-President of the French Republic, as their attorney in both cases. The Prince is now living in the Ghetto district of Budapest with his 20-year-old wife and six children by former wives. He is earning $20 a week as a member of an itinerant gypsy orchestra.

ONE OF FOUR PUSHBALLS IN U. S. OBTAINED FOR ST. LOUIS GAMES

Search Finally Ends in Chicago; Contests to Be Feature of Tuberculosis Day.

Two pushball games are on the program of the Tuberculosis day events at Sportsman's Park next Wednesday, but the Entertainment Committee had difficulty in arranging the contests, because there are only four pushballs in the United States.

Correspondence with colleges failed to find one, but Senator Hawes and Dwight F. Davis, the new Governor-General of the Philippines, discovered the army had one at Fort Alexandria, Va. However, Secretary of War Good wrote that it could not be lent without a special act of Congress.

Sporting goods manufacturers related that the only other pushballs known to be available were in the possession of the Chicago Police Department, the military department of the University of Chicago and Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Ia. Through the aid of Alderman Waldman the committee borrowed the Chicago Police Department's ball, which arrived Wednesday. Two hours were required to inflate the ball with an air hose at a filling station. It is on display at Tuberculosis and Health Society headquarters, 1117 Locust street, where it was rolled in through a back doorway. Four teams of 15 men each from the Kiwanis, Lions' and Optimists' clubs will play the games.

CORTIZ A. KITCHEN DIES AT VETERANS' REUNION

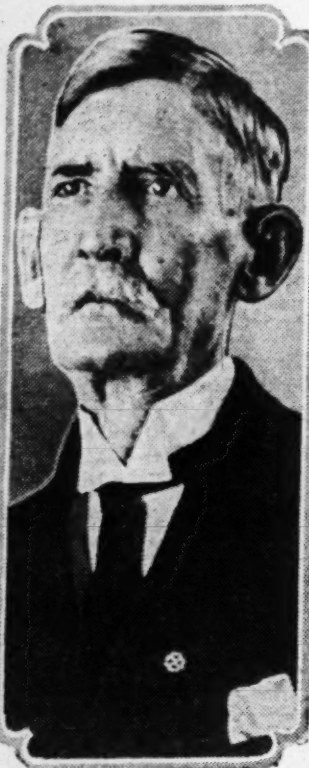

State Commander of Confederate Organization Was Former Newspaper Man.

Cortez A. Kitchen, 76 years old, of 6842 Waterman avenue, State Commander of the United Confederate Veterans and former newspaperman, died of pneumonia yesterday in Charlotte, N. C., where he was attending a national reunion of former Confederate soldiers.

Born in Stoddard County, Mo., the son of Col. Sol G. Kitchen, a Confederate cavalry officer, Mr. Kitchen was captured by Federal troops at the age of 19 and after being held a month was returned home with a military escort. Throughout the Civil War he served his father and other officers as orderly. For this, he was known later as the "boy" of the Confederacy. After the war he entered the public schools.

After taking a law course at Missouri University, Mr. Kitchen moved to St. Louis and entered newspaper work. At various times he served as Jefferson City correspondent for the St. Louis papers, editorial writer for an Omaha paper, secretary of the old St. Louis City Council, assistant wharf and harbor master and recorder for the town of Kirkwood. He had been head of the Missouri branch of the veterans' organization for eight months. Four years ago he retired from active duty in a paving firm. Mr. Kitchen's body will arrive tomorrow from Charlotte and the funeral will be held Tuesday. Besides his widow, Mr. Kitchen is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Bruce Elliott of St. Louis, and Mrs. H. H. Nielsen, of Eldorado, Ark., and a son, Robert A. Kitchen, of Eldorado.

JOHN E. KELLERD DIES,
ON U. S. STAGE 44 YEARSHe Was Co-Star With Joseph Jefferson, Played Opposite
Mrs. Fiske.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, June 7. — John E. Kellard, who succeeded William J. Florence in the cast of "The Rivals" and for years was a co-star with Joseph Jefferson, died yesterday in the home of his friend, Alfred Dressler, in Yonkers. He had been in ill health since his last appearance in "Trelawney of the Wells" in 1927 and had been under the care of the Actors' Fund of America.

For 44 years Kellard was a favorite on the American stage, and during his career in this country was regarded as one of the most finished of character actors. One of his outstanding creations was that of Gordon Hayne in "Held by the Enemy," when William Gillette produced it at the Madison Square Theater in 1886. But from the autumn of 1882, when Kellard made his debut in America as a member of the Boston Museum Co., his ability made itself felt. His services always were in demand, and among the stars he supported were Henrietta Crossman in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," Minnie Maddern Fiske in "Leah Kleschna," Daniel Bandman, Jefferson and others. He held the record for the number of consecutive performances of "Hamlet" in New York—more than 100 nights.

Born in Kensington, London, May 14, 1863, Kellard was left an orphan at four. When he was eight years old he was able to perform on the violin and piano and appeared in concerts. When he was 16 he made his debut as an actor Jan. 10, 1879, in the role of Polonius in "Hamlet" at the King's Cross Theater in London. He then became leading man at the Lyceum Theater in Stafford and after a round of the provinces in various companies finally obtained a permanent berth at the old Sadler's Wells Theater. He left that post to accept the Boston Museum engagement.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Malachy's Church.

Monroe City Hire Band Director, public schools, has been employed as director of the municipal band for the summer. The band is orchestra music in the Monroe City give weekly concerts.

J. S. GUNBOAT STILL AGROUND IN HWANG PU RIVER, CHINA

The Luzon Has Been Fast Since Wednesday; Position Considered Dangerous.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, June 7.—The United States gunboat Luzon, which went aground Wednesday night at the breakwater at the mouth of the Hwang Pu River, is still aground. Although naval officers were noncommittal regarding the possible fate of the vessel after several attempts to free the boat had failed, it was generally considered that its position was dangerous.

Rear Admiral Thomas T. Craven, commander of the American Tangtze patrol, was aboard the gunboat at the time of the accident and is now directing operations. The ship was in the hands of a civilian pilot when it went aground.

A considerable quantity of the Luzon's equipment was taken ashore to prevent possible loss in the event the ship is destroyed. The Luzon has a displacement of 575 tons and a draft of six feet. It was authorized in 1925.

REHEARING FOR SLAYER OF 3

JEFFERSON CITY, June 7.—An order was issued by the State Supreme Court, en banc, yesterday, for a rehearing of the case of Newell M. (Dobb) Adams, Springfield, who last June killed three persons. The Supreme Court May 25 reversed and remanded Adams' case for a new trial on the ground the trial judge in Polk County Circuit Court erred in sentencing Adams to death when the jury could not agree on punishment. Attorney-General Shartel several days ago filed a motion for a rehearing, and the order of the Court today honored that motion. June 25 was set for the rehearing date.

TEMPORARY SHERIFF NAMED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 7.—Pending the holding of a special election which he called for Saturday, July 6, Governor Parnell yesterday morning appointed William Hill, Ozark sheriff and collector of Franklin County to succeed the late Sebern J. Davis, who died May 21. The new official who will serve for 30 days was notified of his appointment shortly before noon and assumed the duties of his office.

The race for the office will be contested by Former Sheriff S. S. Crawford and former county clerk, and deputy sheriff, Vent Addy.

$18,000,000 ILLEGALLY SPENT, STARR CHARGES

Chairman of Senate Investigating Committee, in Minority Report, Accuses Sanitary District Officers

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 7.—Chicago Sanitary District officials unlawfully expended more than $18,000,000 in seven years, Senator Harry W. Starr, chairman of the Senate Investigating Committee, yesterday reported to the Senate in a report signed by only himself.

Money misused in 1926, Starr said, amounted to $3,323,248; in 1927, $3,353,065, and in 1928, $6,465,295.

"Your committee further finds," the report said, "that the trustees extravagantly and without justification or reasonable excuse authorized and approved the construction of a cement highway 40 feet wide and four miles long running along the west bank of the north channel of the sanitary district; that the construction of said highway was wholly outside the purposes for which the sanitary district was organized; that said highway had nothing to do with the sanitation of the city nor was it necessary to make accessible or available for convenient use of dock property owned by the district.

Compromise Report by Others.

Starr's report, a minority one, was not agreed to by the other four members of the committee, who submitted a compromise report much milder in character.

The majority report was a complete whitewash of the sanitary district officials, and found there was "no evidence of graft, useless expenditure of funds, and the building of the bridge path alone was of secondary or minor importance."

Starr specifically charged that $4,400,442 was squandered between Jan. 1, 1921, and June 30, 1925. His figures showed $710,232.99 to have been misused during the remaining six months of 1925.

Three appropriation bills from the Senate were advanced from first to second reading only today, which means that final roll call on them cannot be taken until Saturday.

All these indications point to an adjournment Friday night until next Tuesday and a final windup of work Wednesday. Present plans are to wait until tomorrow to determine whether it will be possible to end the session by Saturday noon. If this is not possible, a recess until Tuesday will be taken.

Appointment of a committee of seven to investigate and study the advisability of an Illinois park system along the Mississippi River, is now up to Gov. Emmerson. The Senate passed a House joint resolution of Representative Foster of Macomb, creating the commission and sent it to the Governor for signing.

SHRINERS PLEDGE SUPPORT TO HOOVER'S DRY PROGRAM

Leo V. Longworth of Los Angeles Elected Imperial Potentate at Convention.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 7.—After pledging support to the law enforcement program of President Hoover and installing Leo V. Longworth of Los Angeles as Imperial Potentate, the 1929 Shrine convention adjourned yesterday.

The Imperial Council announced that New Orleans and Toronto, Canada, were definitely under consideration as possible 1930 convention cities, but that no decision would be made for 30 days.

Elevation of Longworth to the post of Imperial Potentate automatically moved 10 of the 13 Imperial Council members up another step in the supreme body.

Longworth succeeded Frank C. Jones of Houston, Tex.

George L. Glendoff of Springfield, Mo., was appointed to the Committee on Dispensation and Charities, and G. T. Matthews of St. Louis, to the Committee on Jurisdictional Lines.

Dr. Poling Head of Reformed Synod, HOLLAND, Mich., June 7.—Dr. Daniel Poling, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Presbyterian Church of New York City and Church Endeavor leader, last night elected president of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America. It was indicated the finding commission of the synod which is to report tomorrow, will recommend a merger with the Presbyterian church. Opposition is expected, however, from the legislative group of churches at New York City.

15 Towns Urge Hard Surface Road Between Louisiana, Mo., and Independence.

GLASGOW, Mo., June 7.—Meeting upon an invitation extended by the Commercial Club here, representatives from about 25 towns along the C. & A. Railroad from Louisiana to Independence Wednesday effected an organization looking to the connection of Mo. 20 at Glasgow and 22 at a point where that road connects with 63 west of Sturgeon.

The organization to be known as the "Highway Association to Connect 20 and 22" was formed at a luncheon served at the Adgate Hotel.

The officers of the organization are: W. B. Nevert, president, Glasgow; Judge Charles Bledsoe, vice president, Mexico; R. P. Price, secretary, Centella.

At the present time there remains 300 miles of the original $600,000 bond-issue project yet to be let as a part of the Missouri State highway system. The gap in question, if closed, would effect complete hard-surfaced roads across the State from Louisiana to Kansas City, shortening the distance between Chicago and other northeastern points many miles to Kansas City.

The commercial organizations of the towns along the proposed route are being urged to request to lend every effort toward getting the proposition through the highway department. Mr. Nevert announced Wednesday evening that he had arranged a meeting for the Executive Committee of the organization with Mr. C. W. Griffin, chief engineer at Jefferson City for Friday of this week, all co-operating interests from the various towns along the proposed route are automatically members of the association and as such will be entitled to one delegate, which will comprise the Executive Committee. R. P. Price, secretary of the association is the

FILIPINOS HOPE NATIVE WILL BE POLICE CHIEF

Appointment Will Be Made by Dwight Davis as Governor-General.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, P. I., June 7.—The Filipino leaders are casting their eye toward one of the most important governmental posts to come within the possible reach of a Filipino since the Filipinization days of Francis Burton Harrison's regime as Governor-General.

The post is that of Chief of Police of Manila, which their newly-appointed Governor-General, Dwight D. Davis, is called upon to fill. Only Americans have held the position in the past. The post apparently became vacant several weeks ago when the chief, Col. John W. Green, left for the United States. Officially he went on a six-month leave, but it is understood that he does not intend to return.

With Green's departure, Lieutenant-Colonel Gerardo Alcid, a Filipino, became acting chief. During his few weeks as head of the department, Alcid has caused the greatest shake-up in the police force in years. He summarily dismissed three Filipino detectives recommended the demotion of two American police captains, recommended the reprimand of an American sergeant, and investigated three Filipino detectives, with the possibility that two of the latter will be dismissed. He has reorganized the five vice squads which prevailed under Col. Green and has organized five new ones. He has made two important raids on Chinese opium dens and two important raids on Filipino gambling places. His campaign against gamblers is said to have resulted in the withdrawal of the gambling rings to the suburbs.

The effort of the Filipino leaders to obtain the post of Chief of Police for a Filipino is in keeping with their policy of extending Filipino control to as many branches of the Government as possible. However, it is declared in well-informed Filipino circles, the leaders will not be insistent about the matter. They are said to feel that the Americans and the Europeans resident in Manila are too strongly opposed to a Filipino. Some of them are inclined to believe that it is perhaps best to have an American at the head of the department, and thus let him bear the responsibility for whatever crime there might be in the city.

Gift to Missouri U.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 7.—Announcement was made here yesterday of the gift of $1000 to the University of Missouri by M. H. Lockwood of New York City for the establishment of a fund to be known as the John and Mary Lockwood Fund, which is to be held in trust for university. The fund is to be allowed to increase by re-investment of interest for 30 years after which time it may be used to endow a chair or a scholarship, for research or other purposes as the curators may decide. Additions may be made to the fund in the meantime by the original donor, or by other children of John and Mary Lockwood, or from other sources. John and Mary Lockwood had nine children, all of whom attended the university and six of whom are graduates of the institution.

Gork Honored by Police Chiefs.

Chief of Police Gork was elected first vice president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police at the closing session of the organization's convention in Atlanta, Ga., last night. Phil T. Bell of Kearney, N. J., was elected president. Duluth, Minn., was chosen for the 1930 convention.

10-FOOT WIDTH FOR SOME U. S. HIGHWAYS

Changes in Federal Methods Described by Chicago Motor Club's Head.

Chicago, June 7.—Greatly increased motorization and mechanical improvements in motor vehicles in the past five years have caused drastic changes in Federal road-building methods, according to Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club. Government highway engineers are concerned over adequate widths of rights of way and the proper, not only with the present but future traffic, of banking curves and the radius of curves, Hayes declared. Hayes is chairman of the Road Widening and Grade Separation Committee of the American Automobile Association.

"In 1920 there were approximately 8,000,000 motor vehicles in the country, whereas today there are more than 24,000,000," Hayes said. "Furthermore, the average speed of cars in the open country has increased 20 miles an hour in that period, as a result of improved motors, four-wheel brakes and other features that make for speed and safety."

"In 1918 only three states permitted cars to be driven from 35 to 40 miles an hour. Twenty-five miles was the average maximum. In 1928 36 states permitted 35 to 45 miles, while three states prescribed no limits. Sixteen-foot roads were regarded as fairly adequate a decade ago; road shoulders, or the space adjoining the edge of the road surface where cars may be stopped for repairs, received little or no consideration. "Today the policy of the Federal bureau of public roads is to secure wide rights of way, which are the primary basis of adequate road widths. Although many states still acquire less than 100 feet for some of their radial routes, such a width, even up to 200 feet, especially where main roads intersect, is not uncommon when the national Government is concerned. The extra width at intersections permits of grade separations as the traffic increases. The extra width of the rights of way in general not only permits of widening of the routes from time to time, but also for spacious shoulders on which car owners can park for the purpose of changing tires and other reasons without peril to themselves or those on the road."

OPEN MINE LAMP BILL FAILS

Illinois Measure Against Electric Safety Lights Defeated. By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 7.—A bill which would have prohibited the use of electric safety lamps in Illinois coal mines was killed in the House of Representatives last night. The measure, which would have meant the return of the open flame lamps, was defeated, 64 to 23, in one of the stormiest sessions of the year. The bill may be reconsidered today on a motion for reconsideration, legislative observers said last night.

DRESDEN EXPOSITION OFFERS "TRIP THROUGH GERMANY"

DRESDEN, Germany.—The annual exhibition of "Deutscher Herbst" on the Dresden exposition grounds, which will remain open until Sept. 15, is this summer devoted to "Reisen und Wandern," that is, traveling and hiking, or travel and pedestrianism in general.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 7.—The Cardinals lost the third game of the series to the New York Giants here this afternoon, McGraw's men thus sweeping the three games.

The score was 8 to 1. The defeat dropped the Cardinals to third place, the Cubs winning and moving into second position. Manager McGraw sent Fulles to left field against left-handed pitching. The attendance was smaller than previous games of the series, fewer than 3000 persons paying at the gate.

CARDINALS—Douthitt fouled to Frisch. Hubbell threw out High. Frisch batted a slow roller down the third-base line. Bottomley flied to Fulles.

CARDINALS—Gelbert singled to right. Sherdel popped to Terry. Douthitt popped to Reese. High flied to Roush.

WINS THIRD TIME

AT FAIRMOUNT

By Melvin D. Fulcher

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.
FAIRMOUNT RACE TRACK,
ILL., June 7.—Rainy winds fell on the course during the night made the track slow for this afternoon's racing. The sun, however, had dried it out to the extent where it was not a heavy track. This had an effect on some of the races, in which mud horses became actual contenders where before they only had a mere chance.

The attendance was about 3000 despite threats of rain.

ANGEL BRIGHT AGAIN.

Angel Bright, from the B. E. Rice stable, kept up her winning streak by making it three straight victories at the meeting when she took the first race on the card. Gotta Gonow, the pace setter all the way, was second, and Lady Emblem, the favorite, was third. Angel Bright followed the leader to the stretch, where, under a mild hand ride, she moved up and, responding to urging, gained a close victory. Gotta Gonow showed keen speed all the way. Lady Emblem appeared somewhat lame when walking to the post and she ran a rather dull race, never getting into actual contention.

The winner paid $9.20.

Angel Bright was the winner of the first race on the card.

On May 25 and the second horse here to win three straight races.

Good Prices in Second.

Focus accounted for the second race rather badly.

Blood second and Black Nan third. The winner was an outsider, paying $25.00, while Blue Blood, the second horse, enjoyed about equal favoritism with Sergeant Seth.

The winner made up a lot of ground in the stretch, and finished gamely. Blue blood had no mishaps, being close to the pace throughout. Black Nan raced well, showing speed, but tired in the stretch.

Sergeant Seth, with an outside post position, evidently found his impost of 117 pounds too great, tiring after racing fairly well to the stretch.

Black Nan was an extreme outsider, paying $17.32 to show.

Ocean Current an Also Ran.

The third was won by J. D. (Dublin John) Grant's Frightful, which was favored by his inside post position, was away fast and the shaking off a challenge of Erin Go Bragh at the half-mile ground, came away and increased his advantage to win by three lengths, with Jack O'Kee, a maiden race, second and Escarra third.

Ocean Current, the 6-to-5 favorite, ran poorly and was never a real contender. Erin Go Bragh was through after going a half mile.

The winner was quoted at 25 to 1 until the last betting made him 6 to 1, and he paid slightly better, $14.50, being hung out on the big board.

ROBERT BUCK'S RECORD.

Robert Buck's record set a new national collegiate A. A. meet record in the shot-put, when he led the qualifiers with a heave of 50 feet 2 inches. The Californian surpassed the former record made by John Kuck of the Kansas State Teachers' College in 1926 by 2½ inches.

ONE OF THE FINEST AGGREGATIONS of college athletes ever assembled engaged in the preliminaries to reduce the fields for the finals of the college Olympics tomorrow.

EDDIE TOLAN, sensational Negro sprinter from the University of Michigan, and George Simpson of Ohio State, raced to world's record time of 9.5 seconds in winning their preliminary heats in the 100-yard dash. Tolan, running smoothly, broke the tape two yards ahead of Topolino, of Loyola University, New Orleans. Simpson had a margin of a yard and a half over Edie, of Notre Dame.

BABE RUTH'S HEAR AFFECTED, BUT DOCTOR SAYS HE MAY PLAY IN WEEK

SLUGGER ORDERS TO KEEP AWAY FROM BALL GAMES

NEW YORK, June 7.—After a day of conflicting reports about a illness of baseball's great man, Babe Ruth, the New York Yankee manager gave out an authoritative statement from the player's physician this afternoon asserting that the slugger was not seriously sick and may be able to play again within a week.

The doctor's report was that Ruth was suffering from "slight ular heart trouble," aggravated by a bad cold.

This contrasted with reports published earlier that Ruth, who is heart over-taxed and weakened, would be out of the game indefinitely, possibly for a season. No one was permitted to see Ruth himself, confined to his apartment, nor was he allowed to use the telephone, but he is said to be better than two months ago.

His husband was "very ill," when questioned by the Associated Press.

Among other reports was one that the slugger had been ordered to avoid excitement and to keep away from ball games.

The Passing Show.

THE cognate got a jolt when Trigo, unknown Irish colt, The English Derby captured. The lottery paid enormous sums to tradesmen, noblemen and bums. Who were, of course, enraptured.

Some people who were shot with luck. And purchased tickets for a buck. With millions are classing. 'Tis thus the Fortune smiles and frowns. And life is full of Epim Down. As one might say in passing.

The home-run orgies being staged. Have got the pitchers so enraged. They're fit to burst with passion. The singles, doubles and the bunts. And all the old familiar stunts. Are going out of fashion.

The home run used to be a thrill. But fans have been fed up until their appetites are sated. The epidemic, many think, Has put the pastime on the blink. And ought to be abated.

Sir Esme Howard will deny reports for any wet supply. Of whatsoever nature. And diplomats will kick their lips in vain for customary nips. Of what is called the "crature."

Too True.

We noticed the Cards are also having their epson down in the pennant race.

The work of repaving Vandeventer avenue will begin in July. While this work is going on the public utilities will have to dig up some other street for a while.

LD Vandeventer avenue. They'll pave with might and main. Then turn around when they are through. And dig it up again.

Those who have never bumped the bumps over the cobblestones of Vandeventer avenue haven't the slightest conception of what real shakiness is like.

Dusek Does Everything Except Wrestle in Losing Mat Match; Invites Spectator Into Ring

Tom Packs' final show of the indoor wrestling season at the Coliseum last night had one virtue. It was all over at 10 minutes to 10 o'clock. Comment of spectators leaving the building was generally to the effect that the show, in addition to being the last, was by far the worst. And that is saying a lot.

Two of the participants in the matches, however, deserve to be exempted from criticism. One was George McDowell who defeated Speedy Shafer in the curtain raiser with finesse and dispatch in 10 minutes. The other was Jim Clinckstock who was good enough to end his match with Jack Taylor in 14 minutes. Granting Taylor could not estimate a match for Clinckstock that was a rabbit for a bulldog. That was evident long before the 14 minutes had elapsed but after all a main event is a main event.

Rudy Dusek put on a fearful storm in his match with Jim Clinckstock. Clinckstock was the matter was that Referee Fred Voelper awarded the match to the latter because of the rough tactics of Dusek. There was a hint of what was to come in the discussion and significant gestures of Dusek with Referee Voelper before the match. The fireworks started immediately and the men fell out of the ring three times in the hardest display since Dick Davis court was here last. Dusek growled and roared, slugged and the rest of it; he even went so far as to invade a spectator into the ring. His angry play nearly brought serious consequences because such a considerable effort. Steele pinned him in 17 minutes.

And then there was Roy Steele. He had some difficulty with a large man named Paul Martinson, Martinson turned out to be very strong and was moved about with considerable effort. Steele pinned him in 17 minutes.

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 7.—An all-American final will be played tomorrow for the Swiss tennis singles championship, featuring the ranking American stars, Big Bill Tilden and Francis T. Hunter. Tilden disposed of Edouard Duclaux, ranked No. 9 in France, with difficulty in the semifinal round, losing a set before pulling out the match, 2-7, 4-6, 6-1. Hunter defeated an apparently stronger player, Worm of Denmark, rather easily, 6-4, 6-2, and became the favorite of the experts for the title.

LEATHER TARIFF WOULD INCREASE
PRICE OF SHOESFrank C. Rand Points Out That Consumers Would

More Each Year.TREASURY TO GET
$9,000,000 ANNUALLYLevy on Hides Would Benefit Few but Add to Bill for Leather, Officer of Footwear Firm Says.

The proposed tariff on shoes, leather and hides, passed by the House of Representatives and pending before a Senate committee, would increase the revenue of the United States $9,000,000 a year, but in doing so, would add $80,000,000 a year to America's shoe and leather bill, Frank C. Rand, president of the International Shoe Co., told the Post-Dispatch today.

The largest part of the increase would be borne directly by the consumers of shoes, Rand said. However, he said, he could not estimate just what the added margin for the manufacturer, too narrow for him to absorb very much of a tariff burden on his raw materials.

"Now a rise in price comes along in the leather market and the manufacturer finds that the only way to keep from doing business at a loss is to add 10 cents to the price of the shoes. He accordingly sells the shoe retailer at $2.70. Now, however, the shoe retailer is faced with a real problem. The public is accustomed to buying shoes priced on the even half dollar. They wouldn't know what to make of a shoe priced at $3.60 or $5.15."

"Accordingly the shoe retailer is forced to raise his $3.50 shoe to $4, the 10-cent rise in cost of the manufacturer forcing a 50-cent additional mark-up for the retailer. Both manufacturer and retailer then experience a sales resistance, a diminished volume, and the whole thing is unfortunate for everybody."

Consumer Would Suffer.

"In view of these facts, I conclude that since the logic of the general situation in our cattle industry is that more and more hides must be imported, for our cattle are decreasing and our population increasing, and since a tariff taxing this importation would increase the price of leather and thereby the price of footwear, there can be only one answer to the question how a tariff on hides would affect the shoe wearer—it would harm him."

"The attention of Congress has been called to a 'flood' of novelty shoes from Czechoslovakia, said to amount to almost 3,000,000 pairs last year. Tariff protection has been sought on shoes, while at the same time free hides were advocated. The importation of shoes from abroad is less than 1 per cent of our shoe production by many thousands of pairs. Why, in order to protect himself against this 1 per cent, should the shoe manufacturer become the unwilling collector of a tax on the other 99 per cent?"

At present the International is making 180,000 pairs of shoes a day. In opposing the tariff we are trying to keep the price of our shoes within the reach of the average purse."

U. S. DRY FORCE INCREASED
BUT ARRESTS ARE FEWER

Doran Reports 51,000 in Nine Months Against 75,000 in Fiscal Year 1928.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced today that preliminary reports of a national survey on aid given to the Prohibition Bureau by state officials shows a most gratifying co-operation.

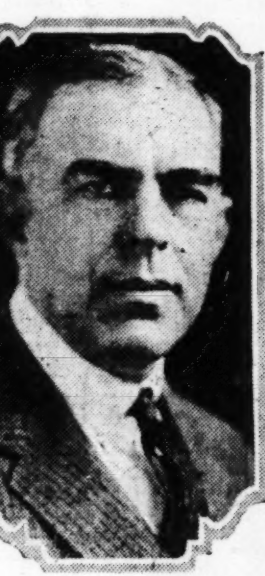

Doran announced that in the first nine months of the fiscal year, ending April 1, his forces made 51,308 arrests, (which is at the rate of 68,000 arrests for a full year) as compared with 75,307 in the entire 1928 fiscal year.

The bureau now has 2170 agents operating in different parts of the country, including approximately 200 new men employed since Congress added $2,700,000 to the amount the bureau could spend for enforcement.

Spinners Considering Wage Cut.

LONDON, June 7.—A private message from Manchester received here late this afternoon said that the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners was considering a proposal to reduce wages of operatives by 12½ per cent. It was estimated that 200,000 workers would be affected.

stantial increase is found. The retailer takes the swollen cost of goods and must mark it up 25 per cent or more. By this time the original 10 per cent increase in hide cost has grown in passing through the hand of the tanner and manufacturer, so that when the article reaches the consumer, the 10 per cent rise on the material in all probability will appear as a 20 per cent increase in the cost of the hide.

Highly Competitive Field.

"Let me explain how this operates. Suppose certain shoes are sold to the retailer at $2.60 and he is accustomed to sell it to the consumer at $3.50. The industry is hotly competitive. The $2.60 represents a very narrow profit margin for the manufacturer, too narrow for him to absorb very much of a tariff burden on his raw materials."

"Now a rise in price comes along in the leather market and the manufacturer finds that the only way to keep from doing business at a loss is to add 10 cents to the price of the shoes. He accordingly sells the shoe retailer at $2.70. Now, however, the shoe retailer is faced with a real problem. The public is accustomed to buying shoes priced on the even half dollar. They wouldn't know what to make of a shoe priced at $3.60 or $5.15."

"Accordingly the shoe retailer is forced to raise his $3.50 shoe to $4, the 10-cent rise in cost of the manufacturer forcing a 50-cent additional mark-up for the retailer. Both manufacturer and retailer then experience a sales resistance, a diminished volume, and the whole thing is unfortunate for everybody."

Consumer Would Suffer.

"In view of these facts, I conclude that since the logic of the general situation in our cattle industry is that more and more hides must be imported, for our cattle are decreasing and our population increasing, and since a tariff taxing this importation would increase the price of leather and thereby the price of footwear, there can be only one answer to the question how a tariff on hides would affect the shoe wearer—it would harm him."

"The attention of Congress has been called to a 'flood' of novelty shoes from Czechoslovakia, said to amount to almost 3,000,000 pairs last year. Tariff protection has been sought on shoes, while at the same time free hides were advocated. The importation of shoes from abroad is less than 1 per cent of our shoe production by many thousands of pairs. Why, in order to protect himself against this 1 per cent, should the shoe manufacturer become the unwilling collector of a tax on the other 99 per cent?"

At present the International is making 180,000 pairs of shoes a day. In opposing the tariff we are trying to keep the price of our shoes within the reach of the average purse."

U. S. DRY FORCE INCREASED

Doran Reports 51,000 in Nine Months Against 75,000 in Fiscal Year 1928.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced today that preliminary reports of a national survey on aid given to the Prohibition Bureau by state officials shows a most gratifying co-operation.

Doran announced that in the first nine months of the fiscal year, ending April 1, his forces made 51,308 arrests, (which is at the rate of 68,000 arrests for a full year) as compared with 75,307 in the entire 1928 fiscal year.

The bureau now has 2170 agents operating in different parts of the country, including approximately 200 new men employed since Congress added $2,700,000 to the amount the bureau could spend for enforcement.

Rejected by Mitchell—

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The attitude of the Hoover administration toward the selection of Judges and District Attorneys is brewing a storm in Republican ranks in the Senate.

Majority members of the Senate for years have regarded it as their privilege to choose appointees to the Federal bench and to District Attorneyships. It has been the practice of preceding administrations to accept the senatorial recommendations.

But President Hoover and Attorney-General Mitchell have indicated that they intend to make a close study of all appointees to these offices, and furthermore, that they will not be bound by senatorial recommendations, although weight will be given to them.

No new judicial appointments have yet been made by Mr. Hoover, aside from those Judges who were nominated during the last session of Congress by Calvin Coolidge and were not acted upon. So the issue has not been drawn and the Republican storm has not yet broken.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania called at the White House last night to inquire about his recommendation of Albert L. Watson of Scranton to be Judge for the middle district of Pennsylvania. Although Senator Reed recommended Watson several weeks ago, the President has taken no action.

Senator Reed made no comment on his visit, at which other subjects also were discussed, beyond saying that he had inquired about Watson's appointment and understood the position in question soon would be filled.

It is the position of Senators that the responsibility is theirs for the men they recommend for appointment in their states. It is their contention that they are held responsible by the electorate for the Federal appointees as is the President.

Mr. Hoover, however, is understood to be taking the view that Federal appointees are his responsibility and to be determined to name the men to the bench whom he regards as best qualified.

Already, Attorney-General Mitchell has rejected some recommendations for District Attorney for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, which were understood to have been sent to him by Senator-Elect Vane.

There is apparently a real problem in filling this post. Reed has felt that the selection rightly belonged to Vane. He is now interested in the dispute between Vane and the Justice Department and is attempting to find a man acceptable to both.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 7.—The Texas House of Representatives, in special session yesterday, voted to hear testimony on 20 charges of misappropriation of State funds and incompetency in office against J. T. Robinson, Commissioner of the General Land Office. It was decided to start the hearing Monday. Action was the result of a report of a committee which conducted an inquiry into affairs of the General Land Office during the regular session. The committee severely criticized the Commissioner. An estimate that air mail delays have cost the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank $1,000,000 in interest charges, and a conference of the Chamber of Commerce Air Board with delegations flying here from Tulsa and Oklahoma City, were today's developments in the campaign for a new air line from St. Louis to New York.

C. A. Border, secretary of the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce, in arranging for a conference here late this afternoon, wired that his organization and the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce favored the direct St. Louis-New York line with an extension to their cities and Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex.

The flight to the Texas cities yesterday in an effort to get their co-operation. Tulsa and Oklahoma City prefer a connection with the proposed airline service, rather than a projected air mail line from Louisville to Dallas and Fort Worth, which is to be considered by the Inter-Departmental Committee on Airways in a hearing at Washington next Wednesday.

Word From Other Cities.

Telegrams from the Chamber of Commerce indicated that Fort Worth and Little Rock would not oppose the air line route from St. Louis to New York, but from Louisville to Dallas and Fort Worth. The chamber wrote to the Chambers of Commerce of Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Pittsburgh and Washington, urging them to join in a hearing by the Inter-Departmental Committee on the direct line to New York.

Delays in the present roundabout service through Chicago, nearly 300 miles off course, caused movement for a direct service. They were attributed chiefly to bad flying conditions in the Great Lakes area by O. M. Atteberry, head of the Chamber of Commerce Committee and Deputy Governor of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, in an address broadcast last night from Station KWK.

Pointing out that the chief value of air mail is speed, Atteberry contrasted the unusually high efficiency of the St. Louis-Chicago leg with the high percentage of delays between Chicago and New York on the transcontinental line. A record maintained by the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, he said, disclosed that between June 1, 1926, and March 31, 1929, 703 letters with a value of $59,131,625 were sent to New York and the 54 per cent was late and 48 per cent on time.

"In other words," he added, "of the total amount of money sent by mail by the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank during this period, $207,886,751 arrived in New York late, entailing a cost of more than $1,000,000 in additional interest rates caused by the delay of one day or more in the arrival of the air mail in New York."

Service Getting Worse.

"A significant fact disclosed in the present figures is that the present service from St. Louis is growing progressively worse. From June to December, 1926, a total of 146 letters having a total value of $142,649,045 were sent of which 48.2 per cent arrived on time. From January to December, 1927, a total of 253 letters containing $183,424,705 were sent of which 47.6 per cent arrived on time. From January to December, 1928, 244 letters having a valuation of $74,323,023 in speed. Atteberry arriving on time, while from January to March, 1929, a total of 60 letters containing $18,566,720 were sent by air mail, only 37.2 per cent arrived on time.

These figures include only letters sent through the Federal Reserve Bank at St. Louis and credited to our account. They do not include mail forwarded by St. Louis banks direct to their New York correspondents. Interchange of business by stock and bond brokers, loss by insurance and other similar institutions, as well as the loss through general business transactions, has the competition between business concerns been keener than it is today. The value of the hour is mounting steadily, and unless St. Louis adjusts itself to meet the constant changes, unless it secures adequate, efficient service for its communications, the economic future of the city is seriously endangered."

ROME, June 7.—The only newspaper here commenting on the Pope's open letter to Cardinal Gasparri, papal Secretary of State, in which the Pontiff reproved Premier Mussolini for "worse than heretical" utterances before the Italian Chamber of Deputies on the Lateran accords, is the ultra-Fascist Impero.

Editor Settimelli complains that the Pope spoke as a polemicist who had the presumption to criticize the Pope's letter to the king of the Lateran accords, is the ultra-Fascist Impero.

"No true Fascist can tolerate that the Pope should presume to censure Il Duce, who, we will remind him, is not to be discussed. We have sworn to obey him without discussion and thousands upon thousands of young men every year take musket in hand swearing not to discuss him. We have never offended the church and the church may not offend Fascism."

The editorial concludes with a statement that another point in the Pope's letter not to the liking of the editor is that it indicates the possibility of resuscitating press opposition to the Government, which, he adds, was destroyed sometime ago. Only Fascism may criticize Fascism, says the editorial. Nobody (the word is printed in capitals) may criticize Il Duce. Il Duce is a man of Providence, he continues, and nobody may forget it.

Hoover Cuts Down His Reception Handshakes
To 3744 For a MonthLimits Visitors' Days to Two a Week, Then to One—Unable to Write for Hours After Receiving Callers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Within the brief time that he has been President, Mr. Hoover has had the satisfaction of seeing one of his policies prove successful in operation.

The number of citizens drawn to the White House by the prospect of shaking hands with the chief executive at public receptions is showing a decided decrease. In April, 7658 men and women filed through the President's office and grasped his hand. In May, the number dropped to 3744.

Early in his administration, Mr. Hoover reached the conclusion that the receptions, then held daily, were proving an unwarranted and unnecessary drain on his time and vitality.

The first step was to reduce the number of receptions to two a week. Even then, the length of the reception line proved to be greater than the President wished. After a half hour of handshaking the muscles of his hand and arm frequently would be in such condition that for several hours he would be unable to write.

The number of receptions then was limited to one a week.

The Washington sightseer who wishes to join the reception line comes to the White House bearing a letter of introduction from his Senator or Representative. That is the only requirement of admission.

The people who attend the receptions are of all kinds, old and young, well dressed and shabby—no restriction is made except that there must be the letter of introduction from a member of Congress.

Arriving at the White House, the sightseer presents his letter of introduction to Patrick McKenna, the veteran doorkeeper at the White House. McKenna gives him its stamp of approval and issues an admittance card to the lower chambers of the White House and to the reception line.

Before noon, the line has begun to form and by 11:30, when the reception takes place, it frequently extends beyond the front portico.

The line begins to move and the crowd surges forward. The White House police keep it moving briskly, two by two until the door of the President's office is reached and then, one by one, through a veritable gauntlet of secret service men.

These guardians scan each face carefully, always watchful for persons who might harm the President, some of whom they know by sight. Hands must be held at the sides, never in the pocket. If one of the line approaches the Chief Executive's office with his hand in his pocket, he will have it firmly, though not rudely, brought into the light by one of the secret service operatives. There is always a possibility that the concealed hand may clutch a revolver.

They find Mr. Hoover standing in the center of the room, his secretary at his side, smiling as he shakes hands with those just ahead.

Between the city and the West End. Newspaper tape machines were put out of commission, also.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Federal regulation of the interstate transmission of electric power—including rates charged for such power—would be established by a measure which Senator James Couzens (Rep., Mich.) has introduced as an amendment to his bill creating a Federal communications commission.

In its present form, the bill would abolish the Federal Power Commission and the Radio Commission, transferring all their powers and duties to the proposed new commission by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Thus, this new body, to be known as the Federal Commission on Communications and Power, would have authority to regulate interstate communication by radio, telephone and telegraph, as well as interstate transmission of power.

As a preliminary to the consideration of his bill, Couzens also has introduced a resolution which would empower the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, of which he is chairman, to undertake a full inquiry into the ownership, control, service and trade practices of all companies engaged in interstate communication or power transmission, and also of those engaged in foreign radio or cable service.

Similar to Walsh Plan.

A single phase of this sweeping resolution would authorize a Senate investigation of the power interests similar to that proposed in the celebrated Walsh resolution two years ago, which its opponents succeeded in diverting to the Federal Trade Commission. The resolution has been favorably reported by the committee, and probably will come before the Senate for a vote next week. Its passage will be urged on the ground that the facts to be obtained through such an inquiry are necessary for intelligent consideration of the bill.

The bill, in providing for Federal regulation of rates on electric power transmitted across State boundaries, contemplates that such regulation shall occur only when it is petitioned by the authorities of the states, or by "a substantial number" of the consumers of the power. The proposed new Federal Commission would be the judge

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and powerful plunderers. Never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Ruin Forest Park.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
FOREST PARK was bought by the people for a place to play and rest, to have trees, flowers and green grass; a place for recreation. It is being filled with odds and ends—junk—gravestones, memorials to the dead, buildings, ugly stands. The Zoo is erecting buildings after building and taking care after care. The Zoo is fine, but they are going too far and taking too much. Think of it—a police station in Forest Park taking up acres of the people's beauty spot, a private golf course for land dedicated to the people for their enjoyment.

Views are spoiled by memorials and ugly buildings.

And now come Blumeyer, Mrs. Michael, Cook and Tobin with a school. Has this committee been thinking? Have they considered the spoliation? Or have they blindly followed suggestions? We, as a people, should ask ourselves: What is Forest Park for? If the answer is a place for flowers, grass and trees—a place for rest and grove, a spot for beauty and enjoyment, then we must insist that all things not devoted to these ends be gotten out and kept out, forever. Otherwise, bring out the postoffice, court house, flying field, build office buildings and apartments. K.

Favors Forest Park Site.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I am surprised that you print an article such as "Save Forest Park." What could be more beautiful than a high school in our park? For years this part of the park has been filled with smoke from burning rubbish. Why I am sure that if this question was put to a vote the people would suggest that the ancient police station be torn down and a high school erected on the highest point. The boys and girls will add charm to our park. Don't compare them to any dairy show.

Three cheers for our Board of Education members. Their hearts are with our children and they want them to have the best. Why should your paper put a damper on this?

MRS. F. SCHMICKELAR.

"Musollini and the Ozarks."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I NOTE with regret your editorial of June 2, "Musollini and the Ozarks." You surely haven't "checked" on the "Ozarks" since the dark ages and this is the first time I know of a man in a starving condition. Gee, I'll have to pull up my belt a couple of notches, after reading such an article. Have had a number of calls for charity this spring, but the people were all from Michigan, California, Florida, or some other land of "milk and honey." The Ozark Chamber of Commerce should raise up in arms against such propaganda.

Think of the train loads of straw-berries, poultry, eggs, milk, etc., the Ozarks are pushing to large cities like St. Louis. Comparing our people with the ignorant class of people in some foreign nation or country is all wrong.

It is true some of our timber workers may live out in the woods, but God made the great outdoors and if they, through democracy, desire and enjoy this life, why should the Post-Dispatch declare "war" on them? I know the people south of here for miles and have been in their homes, and believe me, when you put your feet under their tables, loaded with fox squirrels and game in season, chicken, butter milk, strawberry shortcake, hot biscuits and corn bread, and see the beautiful women that prepare these meals, you will think St. Peter has made a mistake and opened the gates and let out some of the angels of Heaven. I could go on and tell you more and more of the sterling qualities of our people. However, I think this is sufficient to put you on the right track and next time you have anything to say about the Ozarks leave your friend Musollini out and make your remarks a little more felicitous. I wish your good paper continued success.

A Stenographer Has Her Say.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
WELL, well, here I have been getting along all these years in total ignorance of the utter depravity of my profession. Up pops "Sister Rogers" in Massachusetts Tech and disillusions me. I'm a stenographer, and I was stupid enough to believe that, if anything, it was a credit to me that I am able to paddle my own canoe instead of being a parasite. Of course, I must admit I had no choice. Probably if I had, I would have chosen to be the "Dora" daughter, so that the worthy underlings of Sister Rogers would look upon me with favor. I, like most of my other "partners in crime" was unfortunate enough to have to shift for myself, and maybe that excuse in the eyes of the honorable professor will soften to some extent the bitterness of his criticism. At any rate, I'm still dumb enough to be proud of my "profession" and any man who would be influenced against me by such ridiculous and narrow-minded prejudices, would have such an out-of-focus vision and such a small set of ideals, that I wouldn't have a dime to spare, for a gift with a million dollars thrown in, so I guess we're all happy. There has been some argument recently that college professors were underpaid. Well, Professor Rogers is about the best concrete example of the fact that they are overpaid, if anything. TMA STENO.

THE GERMAN DEBT AGREEMENT.

One of the happy features of the German debt agreement is that it will almost certainly result in evacuation of German cities by allied troops. It is now 11 years since the war ended; but because of the unsettled nature of reparations and debts, the allied troops have continued to occupy German territory. There are now 70,000 French, British and Belgian troops in the Rhine cities—the French at Mainz, the British at Wiesbaden, and the Belgians at Aachen. This has been a galling situation, the end of which will hardly please the Germans more than it will comfort the allies. The Germans expect the evacuation to begin by next Sept. 1 at the latest. Their expectation awaits only official assurance from the allies that since all is settled there is now no occasion for the occupation.

If so, Europe can breathe freely for having the dreadful uncertainties of what Germany is to pay removed, and the allies can enjoy the good conscience of not continuing in the unhappy role of persecutors. Both the occupation of the Ruhr, which was so unjust that France could not long keep it up, and the occupation of the Rhine cities by the allied troops, have been in no better or happier conscience than reprisals upon debtors usually are. Of course, Germany was wholly unable to pay what others particularly conceived to be her debt. The whole matter had to be rationalized, and that could only come with the cooling processes of time. The reparation payments which Germany is to make ought not to be a very great burden. The annuities are relatively moderate, and the provisions for commercializing part of the debt are comforting alike both to Germany and her creditors. In another decade the whole matter may have become of little significance, as in time it is bound to be a political question. It is extremely unlikely that Germany will eventually have to pay either the approximate $27,000,000,000 total, or, for that matter, continue payments for as long as 58 years. There will be other revisions.

America's part in this matter has largely retrieved the very bad record she has made in the whole sphere of peace-making since the World War. She has not distinguished herself by co-operating with any of the movements designed to restore the international equilibrium. Her attitude toward the League of Nations and the World Court has exposed her to a not unjustified feeling that, being quite sufficient unto herself, she did not care what happened to others. Fortunately, the reparations question advanced to a point where the United States had an opportunity to expose a better side of herself. She alone was able to bring about an agreement between Germany and her conquerors. The matter was one of immense potential violence. The hurts inflicted by the war are by no means healed. To approach others, particularly France and Belgium, with the proposal to let Germany off for less than the exorbitant claims against her, required both authority and diplomacy.

Neither the world nor the United States can be ungrateful to Messrs. Young, Morgan, Lamont and Perkins for their good offices. They were an unofficial delegation speaking not for the Government, but for American banking. The immense foreign loans of America, a considerable part of which are in Germany, imposed upon international credit a necessity which became identical with the necessities of Germany and the rest of Europe. That is, only in a peace agreement could they all hope to prosper in their commercial pursuits and save their credit. The American experts, being who they were, therefore spoke with an authority that the Government itself could not hope to possess.

It turned the trick. The agreement was made. After 15 terrible years Europe is in the way to be herself again.

THEN AND NOW.

Senator Blease of South Carolina, speaking on what he described as the evil of amending the Constitution, told the Senate he recently had seen two boys and two girls drinking liquor in a restaurant. One of the boys, said the Senator, drew a flask from his hip pocket. He and his companions then drank four cocktails. The performance was repeated, and, "after the four, who came from respectable families, finished dinner, they staggered from the restaurant. I never saw that before the Constitution was amended."

The Senator from South Carolina has not had a novel experience. He can see the same thing in New York or St. Louis or Chicago or Wichita. His observation is just another bit of proof to add to the fact that prohibition, no matter how beneficently it may in part have been enacted, is the most pernicious boomerang the American people ever invented.

THE TRIUMPHANT WILD ROSE.

Although it is our national flower, the goldenrod is running far behind in a contest sponsored by the American Nature Association to determine America's most popular bud. Leading by a vast margin is the wild rose. The wild rose has 220,137 votes against only 35,812 for the goldenrod. Next to the wild rose is the columbine with 103,669, while the violet, which refuses to follow the advice of Prof. Rogers and become a snob, has 54,003 votes. There is an ugly rumor that the wild rose landslide has been engineered by the hay-fever bloc, which united on it as the best means to register their horror of the goldenrod. In any case, they have shown exquisite taste. Is there anything lovelier than the fresh beauty of that wayside loiterer?

After Al Capone's experience in Philadelphia, it is surprising the Browns ever went there.

HACK WILSON'S POINT.

Hack Wilson, whose menacing attitude at bat has suggested to various writers the Piltdown Man, the Dawn Man of Ray Chapman Andrews and Pithecanthrop Erectus, is not usually thought of in polemics. Nevertheless, Hack has raised a point that might have challenged the School of Athens. In a recent contest with the Cardinals, he was put out of the game for protesting a called strike. It was his second strike. Another player was put into the game, and when he also got a strike the umpire called him out. That is, the umpire counted all three strikes only one time at bat and charged it to Hack. Whereupon Hack's blood boiled. Ordinarily he never hits the ball the first two times he strikes at it. If he hits it at all he does so the third time, and as all baseball fans know the ball is not always found again after Hack does hit it. His point is that to deprive him of his expectancy, that is his third strike, and still charge a time at bat against him, is unfair, unethical, unsportsmanlike, unphilosophic, and unscientific. It hurts his batting average without giving him a chance to defend it.

Since Hack is with one of our principal rivals, we are habitually against him; but that point seems to stand up. Can a player be charged with something that happens when he is not in the game? No, say the rules as to the pitcher. No, say the rules as to the fielder. Then why should the batter be charged with striking out when he is in fact sitting on the bench?

1798—1929.

House leaders at Washington are fearful that the alien and disfranchisement amendments to the census bill may defeat reappointment. If that should happen the special interests that desire membership in the House to remain as it is will have accomplished their object.

Their victory, however, may prove expensive. It surely will if history may be trusted. Members of Congress and the lobbyists that are urging them on are familiar, we suppose, with the alien and sedition acts that blew John Adams back to Braintree, ripped the Federalist party into shreds, brought Thomas Jefferson to the White House and committed the young republic to the practice as well as the profession of democracy.

The analogy between the alien and disfranchisement proposals of 1929 and the alien and sedition enactments of 1798 may be challenged by the literalists. The parallels in setting and circumstances are admittedly dim, but the underlying purpose is much the same—the purpose of power to silence or crush opposition and to maintain the status quo in full bloom.

The scheme failed with a crash in the senile end of the eighteenth century, and, notwithstanding the despair of current bachelors, we believe coercion and cunning will fail in the robust youth of the twentieth century.

BOOTLEGGERS BALFOUR'S RAILROAD PASS.

James Balfour, Boone County bootlegger, offered an annual railroad pass as evidence tending to establish his good character and respectability. Supreme Court Judge Walker, in upholding the lower court's refusal to admit it, said:

It is enough to say in regard to the offer of testimony as to the possession of a railroad pass, as evidence of good repute, we have yet to learn that such possession by other than an employee of the road may be construed as a certificate of good character. It is sometimes, unkindly perhaps in rare instances, regarded as a badge of servitude.

In other words, Judge Walker handed Bootlegger Balfour the blue ribbon for ingenueness.

OUR AIR-MINDED RAILROADS.

There are signs that the railroads, at least the more progressive of them, are abandoning the dog-in-the-manger attitude which they have assumed in the past toward other and collateral forms of transportation. They steadfastly opposed the development of inland waterways, refusing to foresee the day when the waterways will be needed to carry part of the nation's traffic. They witnessed the rise of motor transportation, but failed to grasp how important it would affect their own fortunes, and only recently have rushed in to retrieve their losses by entering the motor transportation business themselves.

Intelligent railroad men, like Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific and Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, are resolved not to let railroad history repeat itself in the case of aviation. Instead of looking with a jaundiced eye on the development of aviation, a dangerous transportation rival, they have resolved to get into the game. It is a logical step, for, aside from technical aspects, aviation presents problems that may best be solved by transportation experts—namely, railroad men. If, when aviation comes into full flowering, the railroads are found to be reaping their share of the reward, it will be due to the pioneering work now in progress.

One instance, of course, is the rail-plane service organized by Transcontinental Air Transport with the co-operation of the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads, by which a person may go from New York to Los Angeles in two railroad trips, with a long airplane hop in between. Similar arrangements are in force over the Missouri Pacific whereby a passenger may go to Brownsville by rail, then hop by air to Mexico City in 4 to 4½ hours instead of the 32-hour rail journey; or whereby he may travel by rail to El Paso and fly from there to Los Angeles.

It is a question whether the rail-plane service is anything more than a stopgap; that is to say, there are many who believe that eventually there will be three forms of transportation which will be used independently of one another: all-rail, all-motor, all-air. This school of thought believes that changing from one form to another is too cumbersome and inconvenient and that travelers of the future will fall naturally into these three groups. It is in anticipation of air lines that will some day be railroad-owned auxiliaries that the Missouri Pacific is engaged in logging its system from the air.

A study is being made of general meteorological conditions, airports and airport sites, potential business and so on. From this study much data is expected on which the dreamed-of air lines may be based. We congratulate the railroads, whose historic conservatism permitted the sleeping-car and express business to slip away from them, fought waterways and ignored automobiles, on their awakening.

CALIFORNIA'S NATIVE SONS.

Proof has finally been found that a race of giants once inhabited the San Joaquin valley. The other day two hunters discovered a cave in Calaveras County that was littered with skeletons. The skulls were enormous, the jawbones could easily crack a coconut, and the ribs might have been the lattice work of a baby brontosaurus. A college professor hurriedly appeared, looked on the find and remarked to his retinue: "Gentlemen, here are the bones of California's native sons."

Further search, however, revealed bones smaller even than those of contemporary man. The professor was dumfounded. He could not account for the presence of those dwarfs in California. But a member of the professor's party, after a few minutes of intense concentration, volunteered an explanation. These runts, he said, were the aborigines of Florida upon whom the early Californians used to breakfast. "A plausible theory," remarked the professor, who asked and obtained permission to incorporate it in his monograph on "The Comparative Anatomy of Hollywood and Palm Beach."

IF WE LET THE BUILDERS HAVE THEIR WAY.

The Quarrel Over Representation

Fight against reapportionment of representation in accordance with the Constitution has been made by slower-growing states which could be forced to accept a reduction; they have brought forward the plan to exclude aliens from the count; the proposal is unconstitutional and is clearly marked as the product of a bad conscience.

From the New York World.

IN failing to reapportion after the census of 1920 Congress has violated the plain mandate of the Constitution. This is the first time in American history that such a refusal to apportion Representatives has occurred.

The unwillingness of the slower-growing states to accept a reduction is the basic fact in the whole issue. It follows directly from the decision not to increase the total number of Representatives. There is, however, a further complication. When the total number to be apportioned is fixed, the mathematical formula for determining the apportionment becomes highly important. Up to 1911, since no states had to lose Representatives, a rough-and-ready ratio to population was workable. But now certain Indians must lose, and the mathematical method employed makes a considerable difference to certain states. The problem has been studied for years by the leading mathematicians of the country, and it is impossible here to follow the whole chain of their reasoning.

It is enough to say that among five methods which are possible the one known as "the method of equal proportions" is the fairest. It can be shown that other methods favor either the larger states or the smaller, whereas the method of equal proportions has no bias. It is not perfect. No method is perfect. When a mathematical method would be one which made the number of votes for any particular state to be the total number of votes for all states as the population of the state is to the total population of all states. If this were calculated it would give one state 72-10 members and another 54-10 members. It is impossible to divide Representatives into fractions. You can't give a state 6-10 of a member. But any other method creates some inequality. All that can be said of the method of equal proportions is that it figures out with the least possible inequality.

Unfortunately, Congress has not adopted this method. It has adopted one called the method of major fractions, which has a distinct bias in favor of the larger states. The slower-growing states are in rebellion against the apportionment. There are 17 states which stand to lose one or more Representatives. They are Alabama, Indiana (2); Iowa (2); Kansas, Kentucky (2); Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Mississippi (2); Missouri (3); Nebraska, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia (1). There are 11 states which stand to gain. They are Arizona, California (6); Connecticut, Florida, Michigan (4); New Jersey (2); North Carolina, Ohio (3); Oklahoma, Texas (2); Washington (1). There are 20 states which would not gain or lose.

This situation has provoked the movement in the South and Middle West to exclude aliens from the count of "persons" on which representation is based. The effect of excluding aliens is frankly set forth by Representative Hoch of Kansas as follows (he used the census of 1920 for his estimate):

Arkansas, Georgia and Oklahoma would gain. Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, instead of losing, would remain the same. Missouri would lose only one Representative. California, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania would gain less, remain the same or lose. No wonder that the proposal to exclude aliens from the count makes such an appeal in the South and Middle West.

The proposal happens to be unconstitutional. The Constitution says that the apportionment to the several states shall be "according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding the whole number of free persons * * * and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons." The "all other persons" referred to were, of course, the Negro slaves. Now it is proposed to exclude aliens. In other words, although the authors of the Constitution were willing to count a slave as three-fifths of a person for purposes of representation, a like-minded coalition in Congress now proposes not to count unnaturalized aliens at all. They were counted for 130 years. Now they are not to be counted, and the purpose of this plain defiance of the letter and spirit of the Constitution is to cut down representation of certain states for the benefit of other states.

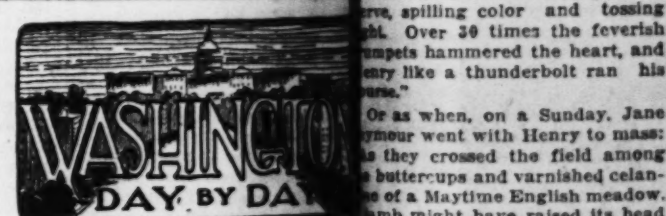

This is a singularly brazen performance, and it is interesting to observe that the authors of the proposal tacitly admit that they are tampering with constitutional rights. They know quite well that the Supreme Court is not likely to countenance their move and so in their own amendment they say:

The word "persons" as used in this section shall not be construed as to include aliens. If any provision of this section is declared to be unconstitutional the validity of the remainder of the act shall not be affected thereby.

Could there be clearer evidence of a bad conscience? As a matter of fact, they will not carry out their plan. The Senate has already defeated it and the states which would be wronged can be depended upon to see that the wrong is not carried into effect. They have been patient long enough. For 60 years they have tolerated over-representation of Southern states in defiance of the Fifteenth Amendment. For 10 years they have tolerated a nullification of Article I. There is no reason why they should be patient much longer. The principle of our Government is that the House of Representatives and the Electoral College shall be fixed by population. This principle is fundamental and it will not be given up to suit sectional, partisan or Pharisaical prejudices.

CHICAGO'S GROWING PAINS.

From the Eugene (Ore.) Guard.
SECRETARY GOOD says Chicago has growing pains. The trouble, you remember, seems to be in the joints.

WASHINGTON, DAY BY DAY.

THE legs of Representative Louie Rice of Indiana are expected by their constituents to have much to do with his political future.

With a quarter century of new growth in Washington to his credit, he shows even old timers in Congress some of the new tricks of the trade.

Louie never has calculated his foot mileage since he came to Congress. He estimates he has traveled 10 miles a day. Unless they run to chauffered limousines, Senators and Representatives would more than write letters to do the Washington business of the voting members; home have to be good legmen.

Even with motor transportation from the Government buildings, you can walk a lot. There are miles of corridors to be traveled, and the rail shuttle trains in the subway that connect the capitol with the Senate building is the only interior transportation system yet installed.

AMONG Senators, big, heavy, strong Wesley Jones of Washington is known for his faithful legwork about Government departments on the business of constituents.

He's just as hard-working at golf. His legislative tasks—or at that, Washington Senator is a golf devotee.

To the pain and consternation of his golfing companions, however, he reverses the usual rule and never interferes with business. So some days he will find him, even in winter, with his victims as they wait for him to tee off.

That habit prompted the victims to ironic but unspoken comment on the Senator's early bird habits. They prefer to present him a miniature caricature of his passion for the game, starting even before dawn.

The records do not show that many stars fall victim to the Jones method for pursuit of the early golf ball.

Mostly, he must fall back on his own strength, and some of them, like Col. Hays, duck his invitations all winter, only come up for the early morning spring and summer.

IN pursuit of knowledge as to sports and exercises, the writer has been on a group of bowlers, also on the game. It's to be noted, however, that they take their daily doses after hours, not before breakfast.

There's a big bowling hall not far from the capitol. There, almost every night between 5 and 6 o'clock, great games are being played.

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Distinguished Biography

THE EIGHTH. By Francis Mackay. (Horace Liveright.) Presenting the personal history of a dynast and his six children in a manner differing from previous presentations, this book has not had recourse to the device, latterly much employed of fictionalizing the historical material. The author might have held the pen in a more dignified manner, but he has not. It is a lively, entertaining, and in places, a brilliant book. It is a biography of a man, not a study of a man. The author's style is not a model of literary excellence, but it is a model of literary honesty. The book is a biography of a man, not a study of a man. The author's style is not a model of literary excellence, but it is a model of literary honesty.

That is the task of the psychoanalyst, to use imagination and to suggest the life of the mind. The author, who holds no such views, has sought to base his story entirely on the material provided by the scholar who wrote this worthy personal history. For it required scholarship of high rank to assemble and edit the material provided by the scholar and present it, equipped with imagination and intuition, but without the distortion that results from invention.

That fidelity to fact need not be the charm of imagination and intuition is established by the testimony of passages that glow when the author tells of the life of the man. GETS DIVORCE FOR FLIRTING
Mrs. M. G. Lloyd Says Husband Made Love to Her Nurses.
Mrs. Gladys Mohrman Lloyd, 5307 Cates avenue, obtained a divorce from Milton G. Lloyd, a salesman, in Judge Taylor's Court of Domestic Relations, on the ground of general indignities. She testified that while she was in a hospital, seriously ill, her husband came to see her and made love to the nurses who attended her. When she recovered, she said, he started flirtations with her girl friends. They were married May 26, 1923, and separated April, 1929. Lloyd did not contest the suit.

Bitten by Pet Monkey.
James Stretcher, 9 years old, of 4640 Enright avenue, was bitten on the face and right arm yesterday by a pet monkey in the rear yard of the home of William H. Bankston, 4412 Lindell boulevard. He was taken to City Hospital for Pasteur treatment. The monkey was segregated for observation.

PROTESTS AGAINST MEXICAN BORDER BEING OPEN ALL NIGHT
Swing Says He Has Been Assured by Stimson of "No Snap Judgment."
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—Congressman Swing (Rep.), California, announced today he had been assured by Secretary of State Stimson that requests to open the Mexican border at Mexicali and Tijuana, Mexico, would be most carefully considered before any action was taken.
He said Stimson told him "no snap judgment would be taken in this matter." He added he had an engagement with President Hoover Monday to discuss the matter.
"I am quite confident that the President will not lend himself to such a backward step as opening the border for 24 hours a day, as petitioned by resort owners in the Mexican towns of Tijuana and Mexicali," Swing said. "The American communities along the Mexican border are a unit in demanding protection from the evil influences across the boundary line."
"I have received hundreds of telegrams in the past 12 hours demanding that the present hours for keeping the border open from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., at Tijuana and from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. at Mexicali be maintained."
The State Department said they had received no request from Ambassador Tellez of Mexico for further opening of the border.

EIGHT DRY AGENTS ACCUSED OF THEFT DURING RAIDS, HELD
Chief of California Squad and Seven Others Said to Have Sold Seized Sugar.
SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—With eight prohibition agents under arrest on charges of embezzling Government property, prohibition administrator E. R. Gohner of California today continued his investigation of alleged thefts among the men of his bureau. The eight agents, including Charles McVeigh, chief of the raiding squad, are charged with stealing sugar seized in raids.
Deputy United States Marshals searched the homes of the accused agents and reported finding sacked sugar at several residences. It was alleged that the agents sold some of the sugar after stealing it.

GOOD FOR LARGER MISSOURI RIVER FUND

Secretary Declares $12,000,000 Is Inadequate for Upper Channel Improvement.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 7.—Secretary Good declared yesterday that was necessary for Congress to authorize an increase of the $12,000,000 limit set for use in making a proposed six-foot channel on the upper Missouri River from Kansas City to Sioux City, Ia.
The secretary explained that the present $12,000,000 authorization was regarded by army engineers as too small for adequate work on the river. He added that army engineers estimated a total of $34,000,000 would be needed for the completion of the project.
Would Improve Lower Stretches.
If he knew Congress would authorize an increase in the limiting figure for the project, Secretary Good said, he would ask for a substantial appropriation for the river improvement project next year. He added that the present $12,000,000 authorization would provide for the improvement of the river to permit barge line commerce only from Kansas City to Leavenworth, Kas.
Good, however, expressed the view that it would be wise to first improve the lower stretches of the river from Kansas City north and in that way provide for the immediate extension of commerce over that portion rather than to dissipate efforts along the entire upper river.
Explains Plan for Deepening.
He explained a plan for deepening the Missouri River channel, which includes the use of concrete piling as retards built out from the shore on both sides. These retards, he added, would serve to confine the river within a narrow limit in which the swift flowing waters would deepen its own channel. He said if this project was carried out it was believed by army engineers that there would be very little dredging work necessary on the stream.

LEGISLATORS URGE COMPLETE INQUIRY IN DE KING KILLING

Special Committee Reports on Aurora Dry Raid — Recommends Disqualifying State's Attorney.

"JUSTICE DEMANDS ACTION BE TAKEN"

Investigation by Attorney-General or Specially Appointed Officer Is Proposed.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 7.—A complete investigation of the killing of Mrs. Joseph DeKing in a dry raid in Aurora was recommended to the Illinois Legislature yesterday by its special committee named to investigate the matter.
"We find justice demands a full and complete reinvestigation," the report said. "We recommend a sufficient petition which the facts in this case will warrant be filed in the Circuit Court of Kane County to disqualify the State's Attorney; that the Attorney-General then be called upon to take charge and if he shall decline that a special State's Attorney be appointed by a judge who has had no part in these proceedings, and that a special grand jury or the next regular grand jury impaneled be instructed by a judge who has not heretofore appeared in this case, and the matter be placed before the grand jury by the Attorney-General or the special State's Attorney."
The report was signed by all members of the committee.
Mrs. DeKing was shot to death two months ago by dry raiders working out of the office of State's Attorney George Carberry, a grand jury investigation of the shooting was demanded. Carberry took charge of the inquiry, despite protests of those who urged the investigation. An effort was made to disqualify the State's Attorney on the ground that he made prejudicial statements, but the action was overruled by the Attorney-General of the State.
The grand jury investigation resulted in a clean bill of health for principals of the fatal raid.

CORONER'S VERDICT HOLDS MRS. CASSLER FOR KILLING

Official Says There Is No Evidence Yet to Justify Naming Foster Son.

By the Associated Press.
VALPARAISO, Ind., June 7.—Mrs. Catherine Cassler of Chicago was charged in a coroner's verdict announced here last night with having fatally shot Miss Camellia Soutar, whose body was found near Hebron, Ind., Decoration day.
E. H. Miller, coroner, wrote the verdict too late for filing with the Clerk of the Circuit Court yesterday. He said he might withhold filing for several days.
The coroner, who had indicated he might charge Eddie Cassler, 19-year-old foster son of Mrs. Cassler, with an accessory to the murder, said he believed the young man knew more about the case than he pretended, but there was nothing at present to justify his being named in his finding.

RADIO ON PASSENGER PLANES
SAN FRANCISCO. — Eighteen passenger trimotored transport planes, each equipped with butefets for serving luncheons and with two way radiophone communication, soon are to be placed in service by the Boeing system on the San Francisco-Chicago section of transcontinental air mail and express route.
The radiophone equipment, already installed on planes operating between San Francisco and Salt Lake City, permits pilots to converse with ground stations 200 miles away. The installation to be placed on the passenger transports weighs about 100 pounds and will be in the tails of the ships.

BANK TO PAY 6.77 PER CENT

Is Final Dividend From Defunct Arrow Rock Concern.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MARSHALL, Mo., June 7.—Depositors of the defunct Arrow Rock

Stock Bank are this week to receive another 6.77 per cent of their claims through the order of Judge Robert M. Reynolds issued to O. J. Watts, special deputy finance commissioner for the State Finance Department. This, together with the 15 per cent paid last March, is to be the last that the depositors will receive from the bank which closed its doors Sept. 20, 1927. A suit has been filed by a number of depositors in the Cooper County Circuit Court at Booneville against the remaining members of the board of directors of the bank, demanding payment of claims totaling $60,000. The depositors have all assigned their claims to Hugh Craig, who has brought the suit against Frank P. Morris, former president of the defunct institution, Will H. Wood, Robert L. Thompson and Dr. M. S. McGuire, directors, for alleged negligence in the conduct of the bank.

British Prince Recovering.

what constitutes "a substantial number." Unless the commission be petitioned by State officials, or "a substantial number" of consumers, to take jurisdiction over the rates, those rates would continue to be regulated by the state without Federal intervention.
The opening clause of the bill would abolish the Federal Power commission and transfer its duties to the new commission, but prior to the power commission could not be effected, and it would be permitted to dispose of pending matters before dissolving.
To Enforce "Just" Charges.
The bill then continues: "The rates and charges for the sale to distributors of consumers of power transmitted in interstate commerce shall be just and reasonable, and all unjust or unreasonable rates and charges hereby declared unlawful for any distributor supplying power to consumer or transmitted in interstate to abandon such rates there is first obtained a public convenience and permit of such abandonment.

In setting up the regulate interstate power service, the bill would agency to be known as "Board," to which all petitions concerning service would be addressed first place. The board would consist of representatives of each State that particular power produced and consumed, and if it was produced at and consumed in Illinois, the Joint Board, consisting of a representative of the three states, would

REGULATION OF POWER RATES AND RADIO

What constitutes "a substantial number" of complaints is not defined by State officials, or by the commission, or by the Federal Power Commission. The commission is to take jurisdiction over those rates which would be regulated by the states.

The opening clause of the bill abolishes the Federal Power Commission and transfers its duties to the new commission, but prior to the power commission being established, it would be permitted to dispose of pending matters before dissolving.

To Enforce "Just" Charges. The bill then continues: "The rates and charges for the sale to consumers of power shall be just and reasonable, and shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Power Commission."

and all unjust or unreasonable rates and charges therefor are hereby declared unlawful. It shall be unlawful for any producer or distributor of power to refuse to transmit in interstate commerce to abandon such service, unless there is first obtained a certificate, issued under this section, that the public convenience and necessity permit of such abandonment."

In setting up the machinery to regulate interstate power rates and service, the bill would establish an agency to be known as the "Joint Board," to which all complaints or petitions concerning rates and service would be addressed in the first place. The board in each case would consist of one representative of each State in which that particular power was produced and consumed. For example, if it was produced at Keokuk, Ia., and consumed in Illinois and Missouri, the Joint Board would consist of a representative from each of the three states. Thus, the personnel of the board would vary in different cases. The bill would permit the states to provide by law for the selection of their respective representatives on the board; or, if they fail to provide for their selection, would permit them to be named by the state regulatory commission, or by the Governor. The Federal Communications Commission would be the judge as to what states are involved in any case at issue.

State to File Complaint. Complaints or petitions concerning rates might be filed by the State Regulatory Commissions, or by the Governors of the states. Protests against abandonment of service might be filed by any producer or distributor. Any person or state authority having an interest in any case before the Joint Board would have the right to appear in the proceedings. The decisions of the Joint Board would be by a majority vote of its members. Where no majority vote was cast, the commission itself would take jurisdiction. Moreover, the commission would be given authority to take first-hand jurisdiction in any case in which the joint board either failed to render a decision or delayed rendering it beyond a fixed date. In all cases the commission would review the findings of the joint board, with power either to affirm or reverse them. The decisions of the commission would be final, except as they might be appealed to the courts. For such appeals, the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia would have jurisdiction.

All necessary power to summon witnesses, administer oaths and require the production of records and documents would be conferred on the Joint Board and the commission. While the Joint Board would be composed of State representatives, it is expressly designated as a Federal agency.

To Upset Unjust Charges. "The Joint Board or Commission," the bill provides, "shall ascertain whether the rates or charges covered by any petition over which it has jurisdiction are unjust or unreasonable, or whether the public convenience and necessity permit of the abandonment of the service covered by any petition over which it has jurisdiction. If such rates or charges are found to be unjust or unreasonable, the Joint Board or Commission shall determine the just and reasonable rates or charges. If the public convenience and necessity is found to permit of the abandonment of the service, the Joint Board or Commission shall determine the conditions for the abandonment thereof."

The bill carefully provides for the closest co-operation between the Federal Commission and the regulatory bodies of the states. The commission would be required to "utilize, to the fullest extent practicable, all reports, records, data and other information in the custody of such state commissions." Moreover, as stated, the present powers and duties of the State bodies shall continue as they are, "to the same extent as if this act had not been passed," except in those instances of interstate power rates where "a substantial number" of consumers petition the Federal body to intervene, or where the states themselves call for Federal regulation.

Authority to Regulate Interstate communication already is possessed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, but has never been exercised because of lack of facilities and time. That power would be transferred to the new communications and power commission.

Authority to Be Transferred. The Federal Power Commission possesses limited authority to regulate the interstate transmission of power, but likewise has failed to exercise it. That also would be transferred to the proposed new agency.

The present Federal Radio Commission will go out of existence Dec. 1, unless its life is prolonged by additional legislation. All its present powers and a number of new ones, would be vested by the Couzens bill in the proposed communications and power commission.

For several days the Interstate Commerce Committee has been holding hearings on the bill. Virtually all the testimony thus far taken has concerned radio, and much of it has tended to establish that the Radio Corporation of America now enjoys a monopoly, due in part to favored treatment from the Navy Department and the Radio Commission, and in part to the lack of law providing for stricter Government regulation.

There are substantial reasons for believing that President Hoover is in sympathy with some, if not all, of the purposes of the Couzens bill. In his inaugural address he pointed out that Federal regulation of public utilities is imperative where the states are powerless to regulate them. Such a case is that of power which is transmitted between states.

Hoover's View of Radio. In the matter of radio, while Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover appeared before a committee of the House in connection with a pending radio measure, and said: "The question of monopoly in radio communication is not squarely met. It is not conceivable that the American people will allow this new-born system of communication to fall exclusively into the power of any individual group or combination. Great as the development of radio distribution has been, we are probably only on the threshold of development of one of the most important human discoveries bearing on education, culture and business communication."

"It cannot be thought that a single person or group shall ever have the right to determine what communication can be made to the American people. We cannot allow any single person or group to place themselves in a position where they can censor the material which shall be broadcast to the public. Radio communication is to be considered primarily from the standpoint of public interest to the same extent and upon the basis of the same general principles of our other public utilities."

Adroit Move by Couzens. Any early consideration of the Couzens bill by the Senate, however, is not contemplated. The investigation recommended by the committee as a preliminary to the final report on the bill is one of the most comprehensive and sweeping ever suggested to the Senate. That it got from the committee as a preliminary to the final report on the bill is one of the most comprehensive and sweeping ever suggested to the Senate. That it got from the committee as a preliminary to the final report on the bill is one of the most comprehensive and sweeping ever suggested to the Senate.

FRIENDLY SUIT FILED TO TEST $75,000,000 ROAD BOND ISSUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, June 7.—The friendly suit to test validity of the $75,000,000 State road bond issue voted last November was filed in the State Supreme Court today by the Highway Commission. It seeks a writ of mandamus to compel State Auditor Thompson to register the first block of bonds to be issued.

In April, at the Commission's request, the State Board of Fund Commissioners authorized sale of $75,000,000 of the bonds, dated April 1. The Auditor, by arrangement, refused to register them, without giving a reason. With the suit was filed a stipulation waiving oral arguments and submitting the case on briefs. A motion will be filed to advance the case on the docket. The commission plans to begin spending the money this summer.

$400,000,000 TREASURY ISSUE

Certificates to Bear 5 1/2 Per Cent Interest.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Treasury has announced an offering of about $400,000,000 of Treasury certificates bearing interest of 5 1/2 per cent, dated June 15, and maturing nine months as its June financing. The interest represents the highest the Government has paid since 1921.

The offering, together with the balance in the Treasury, will be used to provide for the maturing of about $50,000,000 of Treasury certificates of indebtedness and nearly $100,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt which becomes due June 15.

CARTHAGE, Mo., June 7.—Delbert Cline, 15 years old, son of R. D. Cline, Carthage furniture dealer, was drowned early today when his automobile plunged into a water-filled ditch and overturned. New President for Lombard College.

GALESBURG, Ill., June 6.—The resignation of Dr. Curtis W. Reese as president of Lombard College and election of George G. Davis to succeed him has been announced by the board of trustees. Dr. Reese, who has been president for a year since the death of Dr. J. M. Tilden, said his duties as secretary of the Western Union conference would not permit him to continue as head of the college.

Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

Propaganda and pressure in every conceivable form deluged Senators, and the final outcome was a partial victory for the power interests which succeeded in having the inquiry shunted to the Federal Trade Commission.

The Couzens resolution has been referred to the Committee on Congruent Expenses, which is a routine matter. Couzens confidently expects to obtain a vote on it before the Senate begins its summer recess, within the next few days.

DEFINITION OF FRUIT COCKTAIL

It is a Mismomer to Call Any Fruit Combination a Cocktail.

What pass in even the better places as "fruit cocktails" are simply a mixture of cut up fruit sweetened, and not always selected for the best combination of flavors at that.

Correctly speaking, this is not a fruit cocktail. A cocktail is an appetizer and must have a piquant flavoring. This flavoring is produced by adding a little salt, red pepper and lemon juice in proper proportion. A little cordial, a little minced olives, a small quantity of ginger syrup, a little cider.

These flavorings should be chosen to suit the fruits used.

Alligator Pear Cocktail.

Peel pears and dice or cut with French cutter. Place in cocktail glasses and cover with fruit juice. To extend add diced pineapple and orange. This may be served with cocktail sauce.

Taste Never Tires of This HAM

It is always so tender, juicy and has such a deliciously distinctive flavor that everyone enjoys Cox & Gordon Missouri Brand "Molasses Cured" ham, no matter how frequently served.

The slow, unhurried, secret process of "Molasses Cure" and thorough smoking in the dense, cool smoke of green hickory logs give these hams unmatched flavor and tenderness. Made from choice, corn-fed young porkers and cured with such skill and care it is easy to appreciate why this brand has been the accepted standard of finer quality for over fifty-three years.

Give your family a real taste treat. Buy a whole or half ham and bake it. Look for the tag tied to the shank that identifies the genuine.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

Appetizing Recipes Which Should Be Added to Housewife's Collection.

If you keep a recipe file, and most modern housekeepers do these days, you will find the following tested recipes a good addition to your collection. Clip them, paste them on cards and file for future reference.

Broiled Steak.
Trim off superfluous fat from a porterhouse or sirloin steak. Grease wire broiler with some of the fat place meat in the broiler having fat edge next to handle, and broil over a clear fire, turning every 10 seconds for the first minute, so that the surface may be well seared. This prevents escape of the juices. After the first minute turn occasionally until well cooked on both sides. Steak cut 1 1/2 inches thick will take 10 minutes if liked rare; 12 to 15 minutes if desired well done. Remove to hot platter, spread with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Gingerbread.
A charming tutti-frutti gingerbread is made with two cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon cloves, two eggs, one-half cup melted shortening, one-half cup sour milk, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup molasses and one cup chopped raisins.

Mix and sift all the dry ingredients together, mix the sour milk and molasses, combine the two mixtures, add the eggs without beating them, and stir in the chopped and slightly floured raisins. Finally beat in the melted shortening. Beat all well. Bake in two deep layer cake pans.

Pineapple Ice.
Mix one cup of sugar with two cups of water and boil for five minutes. Soak two teaspoons of gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold water for five minutes, then add to the hot sugar mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool, add two tablespoons of lemon juice and two cups of crushed canned pineapple.

Freeze the mixture until mushy, then stir in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and continue freezing until firm enough to serve. This makes one quart.

Vegetable Salad.
Use tiny red beets pickled in vinegar, pickled onions and shredded lettuce.

Prepare individual servings on beds of shredded lettuce. A couple of red beets and a couple of the onions will be enough for each. Pour over salad dressing—made with a bit more mustard than usual.

Braised Carrots.
Another vegetable dish is braised carrots which are really delicious when prepared according to this method.

Take six medium-sized carrots, one-half cup sugar, four tablespoons water and one tablespoon butter.

Wash, scrape and cook carrots in boiling water until tender. Drain, cut in halves lengthwise and place in greased baking dish. Boil sugar and water three minutes and add butter. Brush carrots with this syrup and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes, basting occasionally with syrup.

Sunday Chicken.
Single, draw and disjoint a three-pound chicken. Wash and rinse carefully. Put into a saucepan with one quart of water, one sliced onion with two cloves pressed into it, bay leaf and salt. Simmer slowly until tender.

Remove chicken and brown the pieces, dredge generously with the flour, salt and pepper in the salt pork fat or other fat in a frying pan. When the pieces of chicken are nicely browned on both sides, add the water or stock in which the chicken has been cooked. If the gravy is not thick enough, add flour thickening to it. Season to taste. Arrange the browned chicken on a platter. Pour the gravy over it. Surround with a border of boiled rice.

GREEN PEAS ARE DIFFERENT SERVED IN PASTRY SHELLS

Bake the shells and fill with Cooked Peas With Butter Dressing.

Fresh green peas in pastry cups constitutes an ideal way of serving this palatable vegetable. The crust for the shells is made with one and one-half cups flour, four to six tablespoons of water, three-fourths teaspoon salt and one-half cup shortening.

For the filling use one quart fresh green peas, two tablespoons butter and one teaspoon salt.

Sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening, add water, cutting into a soft dough. Press on slightly floured board, pat and roll out. Bake on outside of pan pans or custard cups, in a moderate oven 25-30 minutes.

Remove and fill with cooked peas, seasoned with butter and salt.

Cheese Sandwich Paste.
Put cheese through a fine food chopper, putting a small crust of bread through last. Mix very soft, with salt and milk, adding a little butter. This may be put into jelly glasses, covered, and kept in a cool place. Spread on white or graham bread.

LEMON JELLY IS AN IDEAL SUMMER-TIME DELICACY

Clever Housewives Can Utilize It in Many and Various Ways.

To make an economical lemon jelly: Wash lemons and squeeze out the juice. Take out seeds and place lemon skins in cold water and boil. Use this water instead of the plain hot water when dissolving the gelatin which has been soaked in cold water. This gives the jelly a much stronger lemon flavor, and fewer lemons need be used.

Left-over jelly or jellies which have melted, may be again reduced to a liquid and remolded. A plain lemon jelly may be cut into cubes and mixed with fresh vegetables or fruits for a salad. For a delicious salad, make a tart lemon jelly, and mold in various vegetables.

SPICED BAKED SLICE OF HAM
Useful Recipe for a Small Family Or for Two Persons.
A main dish for a family of two is spiced baked slice of ham. Take one slice of raw ham about one and one-half inches thick, one tablespoon whole cloves, one-third cup brown sugar, one teaspoon dry mustard, one-fourth teaspoon mace.

one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon cloves and four tablespoons vinegar. Place in hot frying pan and sear quickly on both sides. Place in casserole or baking dish: stick in cloves around edge and cover with mixture made by blending brown sugar and spices and adding "vinegar". Bake in a moderate oven one hour.

Best two eggs very fresh, one cup milk and stir in one cup of corn cut or sweetened corn. Add two tablespoons butter, or a substitute fat, to taste, turn into a greased dish, place in a pan in a water bath until set. Use either fresh or canned corn used.

MACARONI AND ASPARAGUS

Wash and trim asparagus and cook in boiling water until tender; drain, reserving one-half cup of the liquid.

MAKE TASTY DISHES OF CHICKEN LIVERS

Culinary Fashion Decees These Dishes Are Quite the Thing.

Many housewives when they are preparing chicken dishes, throw the chicken livers away unless it is planned to serve the fowl with giblet gravy.

This procedure is a gross mistake on their part for chicken livers are the basis of dishes which lovers of good food simply go wild about.

Grilled, broiled or made into a sort of a ragout, chicken livers are nowadays featured at most of the exclusive clubs, restaurants and tea rooms.

These several recipes show how these dishes are prepared.

Chicken Livers.
(En Brochette.)
Cut bacon in heavy slices and fry half done. Fry chicken livers in red hot fat half done. Place on brochette, breaded English style and broil five minutes. Serve with sauce Colbert.

Chicken Livers.
(With Spaghetti.)
Chicken livers fried in hot butter, seasoned; and sherry flavoring, chives and finish the gravy with fresh butter; garnish with buttered spaghetti around and several slices of bacon well crisped on the top.

Chicken Livers.
(With Mushroom Sauce.)
Wrap halves of chicken livers with strips of bacon, held together with a toothpick, place in a well-buttered pan and bake in a hot oven for a half hour. Serve on toast and pour over mushroom sauce. Sauté one-half pound of mushrooms in one cup of butter, add one cup of flour, one and a half quarts of chicken or plain stock, salt and pepper to taste and one tablespoonful of kitchen bouquet.

Banana Salad.
Peel bananas and cut in halves lengthwise; place in dish and cover with lemon and orange juices; chill. Drain and place two halves, cut side up, on lettuce leaf; cover with dressing and sprinkle with chopped nuts.

An exposition of do's and don'ts of sandwich making by the famous domestic scientist.

Why she considers the exclusive use of Wonder Bread of utmost importance.

By ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

The old-fashioned sandwich has come into its own here, I believe, to stay.

Today you see sandwiches everywhere. At luncheons, even at formal dinners!

But still sandwich making, as practiced by our chefs, remains a little known art. There are so many authentic recipes to follow! Even our cleverest hosts often frankly at a loss.

Sensing here an important need, I have spent year experimenting with sandwiches in endless varieties. My friends have found my discoveries most helpful.

Through the courtesy of the Continental Baking Company I am printing them here for the first time, together with three of my original recipes.

Do read them over and then try the recipes. The results, I believe, will delight you.

My Most Important Secret

Without question, much of the success of the sandwiches I make is due to the bread I use.

Under no circumstances will I consider any bread but Wonder Bread. There are several excellent reasons for this.

First of all, I find it so easy to slice, even when extremely fresh. No matter how thin I may cut it, it never crumbles. This is due, I suppose, to its remarkably fine texture.

Second, the delightful way it toasts. There are never any burned edges to cut off. Nor any

Through the courtesy of the Continental Baking Company I am printing them here for the first time, together with three of my original recipes. Do read them over and then try the recipes.

My Most Important Secret

Without question, much of the success of the sandwiches I make is due to the bread I use.

Under no circumstances will I consider any bread but Wonder Bread. There are several excellent reasons for this.

First of all, I find it so easy to slice, even when extremely fresh. No matter how thin I may cut it, it never crumbles. This is due, I suppose, to its remarkably fine texture.

scorched, uneven spots. Every slice is the same even, golden brown. With toasted sandwiches so popular today, these superior toasting qualities cannot be overlooked.

Third, and in many ways the most important, is the flavor. I have tasted practically every loaf of bread you can buy and many others that you can't, but never have I found the same delicacy of flavor that I find in Wonder Bread. I believe you will be quick to agree to this.

About My Ingredients

Next in importance to the use of Wonder Bread are the fillings I use and the ways I prepare them.

Before slicing the bread I see that all necessary tools and ingredients are close at hand. It is highly important, you see, to combine the filling and the bread quickly.

I see that my lettuce is washed and dried, salad dressings mixed, my fillings completely prepared, ingredients in cans, ready opened.

Under no circumstances do I mix my ingredients. Except in special mixture recipes, always keep them completely separate. This allows each individual

A LESSON IN SANDWICH MAKING! This group of young housewives are receiving expert instruction in exactly how the modern sandwich should be made. Toasted sandwiches, topless sandwiches, hearty sandwiches, dainty sandwiches... there's a secret to every one. This photograph was taken in Alice Adams Proctor's model kitchen, where the famous domestic scientist conducts her experiments.

WONDER CORNUCOPIA SANDWICH... Cut very thin pieces of Wonder Bread, with all crust removed, into fan-shaped pieces. Spread with creamed butter and cover with a thin piece of smoked sausage cut the shape of, but a trifle smaller than, the bread. Roll like a cornucopia and seal with butter along the lapping edge. Small sprigs of parsley stuck in the top of each cornucopia add to the appearance.

Pack on a damp cloth, lapping side down, and cover with a damp cloth until needed.

How to Spread on Filling

To spread on the filling I use a flat knife. I am careful to spread to even thickness and to the extreme edges.

In making exceptionally thin sandwiches I advise a rather unusual procedure even with Wonder Bread. Spread the filling on the open surface of the loaf before slicing. This eliminates all possibility of breaking the bread while applying the filling.

Cutting a Sandwich

There is but one really correct way to cut a sandwich. This is from corner to corner, WONDER FISH CLUB SPECIAL... Ingredients: Kipper herring drained and fried quickly in butter, 1 Wonder Bread slice 1/2 inch thick, mayonnaise. Two crisp leaves of lettuce and two slices of tomato soaked for a few minutes in French dressing. Directions: Toast bread golden brown. Spread one piece on two sides for crust, two pieces on one side for top and bottom. Between the first and second pieces arrange lettuce, tomato and mayonnaise. Between second and third piece place piping hot kipped herring. Serve at once with a bit of celery and an olive.

Thus in eating you taste filling at every bite. You eat towards the crust. The crust itself may then be discarded.

Remove the crusts from dainty appetizer sandwiches. But not from the hearty "full meal" variety. The men, you'll find, want them on!

My Sandwich Booklet

Through many, many experiments I have personally developed several delightful new sandwich creations. These, together with several old standbys prepared in unusual ways, I have included in my new "Wonder Sandwich Booklet." Three of these recipes are reprinted on this page.

Won't you let me mail you a copy with my personal compliments? Do not even send a stamped envelope. Just mail the coupon below.

Do Try Wonder Bread

By all means give Wonder Bread a trial. You will find it delightful in every way. Above all, do not overlook its dietetic advantages. With the new knowledge of balanced diet, Wonder Bread is becoming increasingly important for children.

It offers an abundance of calories to replenish energy burned up at work or play. Also valuable proteins to foster rich blood and sturdy muscles. Go ask your grocer for a loaf today.

LETTUCE NOW SERVED IN COOKED DISHES

A Departure From the Old Custom of Never Cooking This Vegetable.

The modern school of cookery considers lettuce capable of being made up into cooked dishes. Consequently you are offered these recipes for combining lettuce and peas in a tempting dish.

Take two quarts of fresh green peas, one-half teaspoon salt, one small head lettuce, one slice onion, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon butter.

Break lettuce apart and lay the large leaves on the bottom of a baking dish or casserole. Four the peas over the lettuce leaves. Place the heart of lettuce in the center of dish and sprinkle it with onion, coarsely chopped.

Cover the dish closely and bake in a hot oven until the peas are tender, the time depending on the age and the freshness of the peas. After removing the vegetables from the oven, add butter, salt and pepper and serve immediately.

Lettuce Soup.
Wash two heads of lettuce carefully. Outside leaves may be used for soup and tenderest leaves reserved for salad. Cut in fine shreds, put in saucepan with 1½ quarts of chicken or veal stock, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika and a few grains pepper.

Cooked Lettuce Salad.
Clean the large green leaves of lettuce and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain water off, pressing leaves in a sieve with back of spoon. Chop fine, cool and mix well with French dressing; chill thoroughly. Arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with slices of beets and asparagus tips.

Chiffonade Lettuce.
The French give the name chiffonade to any vegetable cut up in this fashion many times in cooking it. If head lettuce is used, take two large cabbages of it, wash and rinse them thoroughly and then gather the leaves up in the hands and cut them like slaw. Put the cut up lettuce into a pan, pour boiling water over it, and generally it is best to pour this water off immediately and rinse the lettuce in cold water.

Then drain it and squeeze it dry and put it into a small sauce pan in which has been melted two tablespoons of butter; cook this gently in a covered pan for 10 minutes, season it to suit with a sauce or plain butter or cream, and use it as a green or for a garnish.

suppose you were goin' on six

AND suppose you'd been playing like anything and were just a weeny bit weary . . . and a tiny bit bored . . . and you were just wishing for somethin' exciting to happen . . .

And then suppose your own dear Mumsy should call out from the house:

"Apple butter time for all good girls and boys!"

And you ran hippity-hop into the dining-room, and there on a plate was a 'normous slice of bread (with the crust left on to make you grow) an' on the bread, so thick and scrumptious . . . a roof of Lippincott d'licious apple butter . . . gobs and gobs of it . . . all spread smooth as smooth with a knife!

And suppose there was another slice (not so big as yours, of course!) and you and Sis sat there and munched and munched and munched . . .

In this world that is so full of nice things that "aren't good for you" and horrid things that are . . . wouldn't

And you asked your doctor about it, and he said, "Bless your soul, give 'em all they will eat of it . . . there's nothing in the world better for them. Regular body builders . . . apples . . . even if they do keep us doctors away!"

That would be a pretty nice thing to happen to you, wouldn't it?

And, of course, the name Lippincott on the jar means the very essence of apple wholesomeness and apple deliciousness! Juicy, sun-ripened apples . . . sweet, fruity cider . . . the purest of cane-sugar and pungent spices . . . all cooked together in the good, old-fashioned way . . . simmer and stir this apple butter surprise be just about the nicest thing that could possibly happen to a big boy goin' on six or his little sister?

And suppose you were the Mother of a big boy goin' on six

And you knew that ever-active little bodies need lots and lots of fuel to keep them going through the long play-day . . . and suppose it was something of a problem to get the youngsters to eat the things you knew were good for them . . . and then suppose someone told you about Lippincott Apple Butter . . . how wholesome it was . . . how really revitalizing . . . how actively good for growing children . . .

And you found that your own hopefuls simply adored it . . . just couldn't get enough of it to satisfy their greedy little tummies . . .

. . . simmer and stir . . . until perfection bubbles in the pot . . . a smooth puree in appetizing brown . . . enticing . . . scrumptious . . . indescribably good!

Your grocer is certain to have Lippincott Apple Butter always on hand . . . you will know it by the big red apple on the label.

Don't you wish you were goin' on six?

FREQUENT cases of inflammation—and sometimes even serious infection are caused by harsh, coarse-grained toilet paper.

Yet it is a startling fact that much of the paper sold for bathroom use today is really unfit for the purpose. It may be glazed, harsh-surfaced, or sharp-edged. Unsafe . . . and especially dangerous for children and elderly people to use.

"—there's no better mayonnaise made in any kitchen"

"I've served Hellmann's Mayonnaise now for nine years and I know it is good. No mayonnaise that wasn't put together with the very best oil and eggs would ever taste like Hellmann's."—Alma Robinson, of Boston.
No other mayonnaise pleases Alma Robinson, cook for Mrs. James R. Lowell, of Boston.

RICH, golden spoonfuls of Hellmann's Mayonnaise quickly transform the humblest of greens and vegetables into magnificent salads. And knowing this, wise cooks everywhere have made many a meal more entrancing.

The rich, true flavor of Hellmann's comes from choice eggs, fine salad oil, pure vinegar, rare spices. These, and only these, go into its making. That is why Hellmann's is preferred in 5,000,000 American homes.

These fine ingredients, each selected for flavor, are carefully blended after an old recipe from France, and tirelessly, evenly beaten. Even in your own kitchen, you could take no more pains to make sure of the deliciousness of your mayonnaise.

Hellmann's is blended in six sunny kitchens scattered across the country, and rushed from the nearest of these to your grocer. Each jar is as fresh when it reaches you as the salad on which you use it.

COLLEGE GIRLS LIKE HOME ECONOMICS

Increasing Number of Students Majoring in Home-Making Course.

Women's colleges each succeeding year send forth increased numbers of graduates from the schools of home economics, which indicates that the home, including cooking, sewing, millinery, house furnishing, home decorating and the other subjects specialized in the schools of home economics throughout this country, appeal to modern girls and young women.

While the theoretical work of home economics college departments varies but slightly, the practical application is what exerts the pull with the college girls. Most of the larger colleges have fitted up miniature apartments in connection with their laboratory work, and the students have great times planning, preparing, cooking and serving meals in this make-believe home.

Take, for instance, Lindenwood College, which graduated a large class from its school of home economics.

The major students were obliged to spend one day as mistress and cook in the small apartment in Roemer Hall, where they demonstrated their ability to plan, prepare, cook and serve a luncheon or dinner. The students served in twos, and alternated as mistress, maid and cook, so that every girl had an opportunity to demonstrate her ability along the line of hostess, maid and cook.

Each meal was served to a company of four. Two of the four guests were teachers of the department or of other departments of the college. Several of the menus served on these occasions follow:

Oyster croquettes
Riced potatoes
Buttered asparagus tips Ripe tomato salad
Parker House rolls
Jelly, Butter, Olives
Strawberry Puffs
Coffee

Another luncheon menu which featured veal croquettes, as the main dish:

Veal croquettes
Rose potatoes
Buttered carrots
Pear salad
Banana puffs
Iced tea

This interesting menu was prepared by two other girls:

Salmon croquettes
Peas in timbales
Creamed new potatoes Surprise salad
Butter horns
Strawberry Bavarian cream
Salted nuts—Mints
Coffee

The following dinner menu was served with great success:

Baked meat loaf
Stuffed baked potatoes
Buttered asparagus
Celery and radish salad
Parker House rolls
Strawberry Bavarian cream
Iced tea.

CITY FOLKS WHO GO FISHING SHOULD COOK THEIR CATCH

There Are Few Foods as Tempting as a Savory Baked or Fried Fresh Fish.

Fishermen who plan to spend the weekend in the Ozarks fishing, oftentimes find themselves at a loss how to cook the fish which they catch.

As the smaller types of fish and game fish inhabit the Missouri mountain streams, fried is the best way to serve the fish from the Ozark region.

However, occasionally a large trout or white fish is caught. On such an occasion it is nice to bake the fish.

It is an easy process to clean, stuff and bake a fish. Even an amateur cook will find it a pleasant task if these directions are followed.

Wash fish clean, scale and remove head, tail and fins; sprinkle on the inside with one tablespoon lemon juice and one teaspoon salt.

Stuff with the following stuffing: Two cups bread crumbs, four tablespoons bacon drippings, four tablespoons grated onion, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Chopped mint leaves or parsley may be added, if convenient.

Mix together lightly and fill fish; sew up loosely, but firmly. Brush fish with one tablespoon drippings, dust lightly with two tablespoons flour and put in a hot oven 20 minutes. Reduce heat and bake one hour and 15 minutes.

SEAFOOD PATTIES RESPOND TO VOGUE OF COMBINATIONS

Cookery Centers Feature New Dishes Made of a Variety of Foods.

It is best to use the regular pattie shells for these, such as can be bought at any good bakery. If it is not convenient to buy them, bake good short pastry over inverted muffin pans, and then cool.

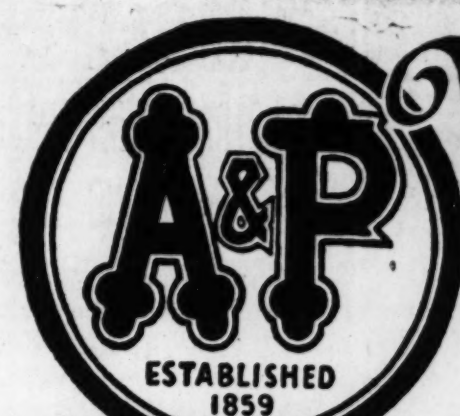

Melt three tablespoons of butter, add four tablespoons of flour, and when well blended, stir in one and one-half cups of milk.

Continue stirring until the mixture is thickened and smooth.

Clean one cup of fresh cooked or canned shrimp, pick over one cup of crab meat to remove any bits of shell, and separate one cup of tuna fish into small pieces.

Add these to the sauce together with two tablespoons of lemon juice, and one teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, one teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika and a tablespoon of minced parsley.

Mix carefully in order to avoid mashing the fish, reheat in a double boiler and fill pattie shells with the mixture. Garnish with strips of pimiento and serve very hot.

STRAWBERRY SEASON NEARING THE END

There Still Remains Time, However to Enjoy a Luscious Berry Pie.

Now that the strawberry season is nearing its end and berries are becoming less plentiful, use the fruit in combination dishes. One of the most intriguing of all dishes is this one which is a real company dessert.

Put a spoonful of whipped cream sweetened and flavored in a tall parfait glass; on that place a spoonful of sliced strawberries, cover with a marshmallow cut in pieces, add more whipped cream on top of marshmallow, then more sliced berries, more whipped cream, another marshmallow and another spoonful of whipped cream. Top off with a large perfect berry.

Strawberry Apple Pie.
Fill a deep baking dish with alternate layers of strawberries and sliced apples. Place sugar on top, shaking well, so that it will sift down through the fruit. Cover with pastry and bake in a hot oven. When cold, serve portions with crust on the plate, bottom side up, with the fruit, and covered with whipped cream.

Strawberry Cream Pie.
One-half cup shortening, one-half teaspoon salt, one and a half cups flour, cold water.

Filling—One quart strawberries, three-fourths cup powdered sugar, one and a half cups thick cream. Sift flour and salt together, cut shortening in with two knives until the consistency of fine meal. Add only enough ice water to hold. Roll, cover inverted pie plate, prick well with a fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in a hot oven 15 minutes. Slip shell off and put inside the plate. When cold, fill with whole strawberries. Spread the sugar over them, cover this with the sweetened whipped cream. Chill in icebox before serving.

Strawberry Salad Supreme.
Two level tablespoons gelatin, one cup cold water, two cups boiling water, two cups mild vinegar, one cup sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one cup berries; one cup other fruit.

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in the boiling water. Add sugar and stir until dissolved; add vinegar and salt. Allow jelly to thicken somewhat, then stir prepared fruit through and turn into wet mold. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

MEXICAN TAMALE PIE IS HOT ENOUGH FOR MOST PERSONS

Even at That It Is Considered Quite a Sunday Supper Dainty.

Take one cup cornmeal, four cups water, one teaspoon salt, one pound beef, one can tomatoes, one green pepper, six ripe olives, one onion, one small clove garlic (if desired), salt, pepper, paprika and one tablespoon fat.

Brown in the melted fat the diced onion, garlic and the green pepper, which has been cut into small pieces.

Add the chopped beef and brown; then the tomatoes, salt, pepper and paprika.

Cook over a moderate fire for about 20 minutes, or until the meat is almost tender.

While this is cooking prepare a cornmeal mush in the upper part of a double boiler by slowly adding cornmeal to salted boiling water until it thickens slightly.

Boil it directly over the heat, stirring to prevent sticking; then place over the double boiler and cook for about 20 minutes.

Line a buttered baking dish with the corn mush and fill with the meat sauce.

Add the olives, and cover the entire pie with a layer of the corn mush.

Place in a moderate oven until browned. Serve in a casserole.

MAKE SUNSHINE PRESERVES ACCORDING TO THIS METHOD

Strawberries and Small Fruits Are Delicious When Treated This Way.

Many housewives question the advisability of making their preserves by the sunshine method.

The method is extremely successful with small fruits and berries when the days are saturated with sunshine.

Preserves prepared in this manner do not have the strog taste and the dark color which results from long cooking but more the brilliant color and fresh fruit flavor.

There is an advantage in preparing fruits in this way over the old method of stove cooking team for a long period of time in order to have them of the desired consistency. They are cooked only a few minutes over the direct heat then placed in dishes or platters in the bright sunshine, making sure they are covered closely to prevent dust or insects from getting into them.

For each pound of fruit, allow one pound of sugar; allow to stand for about an hour, then boil for 10 minutes. Pour into shallow utensils or plates, and let stand in the hot sun for two or three days, then put into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin.

ICE CREAM ECLAIRS A DE LUXE DESSERT

When Served With Chocolate or Butterscotch Sauce Simply Irresistible.

Purchase brick or bulk ice cream from your neighborhood druggist, confectionery or soft drink parlor of whatever flavor is preferred and make some eclairs after this recipe.

Eclairs are not difficult to make if the housewife concentrates by putting her mind on the details of preparation.

When ready to serve, the eclairs are split and filled with the ice cream. Then the filled eclairs are served with a rich chocolate sauce, which may be either hot or cold.

The eclair recipe calls for one cup of water, one-third cup liquid fat, one cup bread flour, one-half teaspoon salt and four eggs.

The method of preparation and cooking instructs the cook to bring the water and liquid fat to a boil. Add flour and salt and cook until mixture leaves sides of pan, stirring constantly.

Remove from fire; cool and add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each egg is added.

Force through pastry bag on to cookie sheet in finger shape about five inches long. Place them about one and a half inches apart.

Bake in a hot oven 15 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate and bake 30 minutes longer.

When cool fill with ice cream and cover with chocolate sauce.

Chocolate Sauce.

Take four squares of bitter chocolate, one cup of sugar and one cup hot water.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler; remove from heat and stir in sugar; then gradually add hot water. Return to heat and stir until sugar is dissolved; cook until a little dropped in a cup of water forms a soft ball.

Cheese and Jelly Crackers.

Mash cheese until soft and work in jam or jelly. Put in tray of refrigerator or pack in ice and salt for two hours. Cut in squares and serve on crackers.

JOINT STOCK LAND BANK INVESTIGATION BY CONGRESS

Representative Cramton Wants to Know Why They Failed to Perform Mission.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A resolution to provide for an investigation of the Federal Joint Stock Land Bank administration by a select committee of seven House members was introduced today by Representative Cramton (Rep., Michigan).

The resolution asked inquiry into the "causes of the failure of the Federal farm loan act to fulfill its mission and the causes for the complicated condition of some of the joint land banks and the failure of others."

"The inquiry also would go into the responsibility of the land bank administration for issuing stocks and bonds 'without adequate assets,' and the extent to which the Federal Government is obligated legally or equitably."

Other phases of the investigation would be direct toward affording protection from loss by persons who suffered through the activities of the banks and would seek reasons for the rehabilitation of the banks. The financial collapse of recent years upon the record of the Government in connection with the administration of financial institutions."

LITTLE HOPE FOR 7 SURVIVORS OF CLEVELAND HOSPITAL FIRE
Doctors Fear Persons Who Breathed Deadly Gases From Explosions Will Die.

CLEVELAND, O., June 7.—Seven persons attached to the staff of the Cleveland Clinic were thought to be wearing a losing fight today as they battled the effects of the explosion at the clinic more than three weeks ago.

Two doctors and a dentist were among the persons for whom hospital attendants held little hope of recovery. Seven others were in a serious condition, but it was expected they would live.

One director of the clinic said he was not seriously ill, but he was not expected to live, while another said: "It will be several weeks, perhaps months, before they will recover, if they do."

The ignition of nitro-cellulose X-ray films stored in the basement of the clinic, May 15, generated gases which have claimed 122 lives. The vapor acted in a manner similar to the phosgene gas of World War I, and the several of those who inhaled the poison did not feel its effects for days.

BERLIN, June 7.—The tenth anniversary of the Treaty of Versailles, June 28, will be an official day of mourning not only for the German people but for the European Churches as well, as a protest against the accusation of war guilt.

A resolution adopted by the Church Central Committee today said in part: "With the whole German people, the German Evangelical Church Committee, as elected representatives of the national church in Germany, sees with sorrow the tenth return of the day of Versailles."

"In the Versailles documents the Germans are stamped as war criminals. That is unbearable for the German nation. All nations and the churches with sense of justice and truth must act toward the war blame ascribed to the German people."

WOMEN DRY PROHIBITION DEBATES

What Alternative Do Wets Offer for Present Law? Chief Question, They Say.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEVERLY, Mass., June 7.—The Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, of which Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., is chairman, announces that it will be glad, in the fall, to enter into a series of public debates with women leaders of organizations opposing the eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Peabody says her groups will be ready to meet the challenge in the cities of the North and West in November and December, and in the South during the winter months. In the meantime the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement asks the following questions of the various leaders of the Anti-Prohibition groups:

Will the Anti-Prohibition women make more definite their proposed program? Do they favor repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment? What constructive plan have they to offer in place of the present law? What plan that would guarantee such a gain as that shown by charity organizations of the country since late prohibition years, a 56 per cent decrease in cases in which drink figures? Do they feel that the conditions in Canada offer any model for our republic? Do they feel that the increase under Government control in Canada of $3 per cent in drunkenness among women offers any hope of substituting that plan in the United States? Do they agree that alcohol is a habit-forming drug?

Do they propose to promote lawlessness by repealing State enforcement laws leaving the public unprotected as in certain outlaw states? Do they advocate the return of the old legalized liquor traffic with all the horrors of the saloon though called by another name? Do they set their personal liberty against the personal slavery of unhappy women who have suffered from the old wreckage of the saloon? Do they propose a return of wet states' rights always fatal to the rights of dry states? Do they approve illicit dealings with criminals who turn easily from bootlegging to banditry? What is their feeling about personal law observance while the law remains?

Do they regard the statements of college authorities that drunkenness has decreased greatly among students since prohibition as of no moment? Do they recognize the teachings of the sacredness of law as given forth by Protestants, Catholics and Jews? Would they agree with Archbishop Glennon of St. Louis when he said, "Catholics must not be set down as opposed to the eighteenth amendment. Violations of the prohibition law today are dishonorable, illegal, disgraceful and altogether unworthy of Catholics and of Christians?"

The signers are Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman, Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement; Mrs. John F. Sippel, president, General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. William Tilton, director, Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement; Mrs. William Darby, legislative chairman, United Commission of Protestant Women; Dr. Valeria Parker, chairman, National Council of Women; Mrs. F. T. Johnson, president, Federation Women's Board for Foreign Missions, and Mrs. Jesse Nicholson, chairman, Women's National Democratic Committee for Law Enforcement.

These signers agree that the main questions are: What alternative do the anti-prohibition women propose and what method of attaining their end that will not engender lawlessness?

Some Partnership's Is New Marriage Name

The term "home partnership" is supplanting the word "marriage" with youth of today, says W. Edson, chairman of the hygiene committee of the National Parent-Teacher Association.

The modern young people shy from the word "marriage," he declared. "It carries with it too much mystery and illusion, such suggestion of the classical type of woman. Boys and girls want to look at life frankly. They want a wife who will form a home partnership with him and he marries."

The Cause of Trouble.

Don't stand on a rocking chair when anything is high. If you sit a sturdy straight chair, you get the ladder—but don't have a chance on that wobbly one.

Sulky Stopped-Up Drain Ruins It

You're proud of your bathroom, but all modern women—those who make a fine art of the things of living—are careful to have their drains so quick to no details—so quick to judge. Why the seeming trifles, the points of modern housekeeping are so important.

Behind bathroom of glistening tile, are pipes and drains. You never see them—yet, are so important. And now it's very simple to care for them. It's the same common-sense method, that plumbers have used for years. A small can of Desolveo always ready and pipes and drains will be always clear-running sweet.

Little water in the pipe, shake Desolveo from the blue and black and the whole job is done in a minute. And, please note this: Desolveo will never hurt the beautiful porcelain enamel of the bathtub or the polish of costly bathroom tiles. Always, it is completely and easily to use.

You'll find it simpler, more practical to give every drain in the house a Desolveo when you use it. Most wives make Desolveo a regular monthly habit.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland

GENTLEMEN PREFER CURVES.

STYLES in ladies have changed again. Lisome, pineapple, and lamb-chop beauties must now look at the back row of the mirror and give all the limelight to the and-honey-and-baked-potatoes partridges.

Waists and bodices will be full, more—and they've got to be full of something besides ruffles!

Poor, unhappy man, who was not getting to like the rag-and-bone-and-shank-of-bobbed—hair and his imagination and wants to "prefer partridges." No wonder so many men suffer from indigestion! It's the constant change of focus, from looking at the

But it won't be half so hard as you might think for a man to love plump and buxom after all those years spent in the land of superficial taste for the animated bone.

Men have always had a subconscious weakness for feminine curves. AND softness. And softness and softness are feminine!

The Oriental, who follows his natural bent and does not allow women to dictate his preferences, fattens his wives and daughters to suit his taste. There isn't a rubber girder to be found in all his harem! And a hipster would be a positive anomaly.

The savage, too, likes his ladies to match the over-stuffed furniture. Fuchrida and avoid. It is synonymous with him. In all history, from Venus to Pompadour there has been an actually BONY type.

It is going to be a little harder on some women who have grown used to the spinach-and-lettuce diet to revive a dead desire for round buttocks, bacon and baked muffins. But for most of us it is a grand and glorious feeling. To know that once more we are a caramel sundae without raking a man's face. That we are taking the first step toward relief! Ah, sweet dispensation!

The hollow mockery of the modern diet for most women, was that it ALWAYS reduced them in the wrong places. It robbed them of their calves and their dimples and left hollows and furrows in their cheeks, which made them look like starving war children. And the hips clung persistently, and had to be rolled and banded.

Oh, well! It's all over now—and we can go gleefully back to the full dinner pail and the joyous days when men were men—and women were butter balls!

We can be lazy and good-natured, and inert—and beloved! We can take our beauty naps and loiter around eating chocolates until we choke.

Because the peppy, snappy metropolitan high-strung ninety-pound waifs may be the girl men can't resist. But the placid, sweet-tempered, well-nourished, husky housewife is the girl they MARRY!

Gentlemen, prefer CURVES—whether they know it or not!

Cleaning the Cellar

AFTER the housecleaning is all done and the dust has been cleaned, comes the cleaning of the cellar. This is a man's job; let the son tackle it. He will be pleased that you consider him capable of bearing this responsibility, and it is good training for him to have the boys of the family assume their share of the home management.

Now is the time to discard all the accumulation of rubbish. Discard newspapers, magazines, old shoes, etc. Allowing the lad to keep what he realizes from his father to the junkman will be an incentive to a thorough cleaning up.

Unpasteurized walls should be whitewashed. The light color will reflect the light into the cellar, and the whitewash is a germicide. It is better for this purpose than paint.

The cellar absorbs moisture and will keep the cellar dry, so let son paint the walls and enjoy the task of making the cellar sanitary and safe for the family, for the cellar condition affects the air throughout the house.

By the time he finishes this the floor will require attention. As this probably is of cement he will finish it up with a strong broom sweep the water down the drain.

Stretching the Meal.

Canned soup should be on the reserve shelf of every housewife's cupboard. There is nothing that comes out so much when trying to stretch a sketched meal for company. It is filling and takes the place of the appetite. Of course, crackers or even little sandwiches will help, too.

Distinctive Summer Styles Made Possible by Lovely Combinations of Colors and Materials.

By Madame Louiseboulanger

PARIS, June 1. EVER since my house has been established it has been my special aim to design distinctive clothes, such as ladies like to wear. The word "lady" is a little out-of-date nowadays. But there is no other to express just that degree of refinement and distinction that I wish to convey.

The summer season gives great scope to the dress designer with distinctive ideals. There are such lovely possibilities of color and material. Charming dresses are not destined to hide most of their glory under coats in which it is not possible to make any great variety of silhouette.

One of the leading features of my summer collection is a series of ensembles carried out in printed foulards, satins and jerseys, made with short jackets that melt into one with the rest of the silhouette, so that while the jacket is worn the owner has the air of wearing an attractive, simple and suitable dress for the street, and when she removes it, the absence of sleeves, the negligee manner of draping a handkerchief collar, or some other characteristic of the blouse makes it very evident that she is wearing a dress that has all the qualities of an indoor gown and some of its informal spirit. This is a concession to modern life. I agree that women have not time to be continually changing their gowns, yet the idea of a uniform type of dress that serves all day is particularly out of keeping with the real standard of good dressing that both dressmakers and women of natural elegance would like to see come back again. I think the little informal ensemble fulfills a real need.

Nowadays all women are busy. Most of them put in half a dozen errands before going to anything but the most formal garden party, which, of course, demands a type of dress that is not suitable for any other occasion except a wedding.

When they go out after lunch when they are usually on their way to visit the dressmaker for the afternoon, or to the boot or the milliner, stop to look at some coveted antiques and perhaps spend half an hour in a picture gallery before setting out on a round of teas. In color there is nothing very startling in my collection. My clients are women of the type who do not wish to draw attention to themselves by striking outdoor effects. There are beiges, soft yellowish greens, pale grayish blues, mixtures of black and white, dull red with pretty prints of red and white and red and beige.

Although the realm of sports clothes is more restricted in its scope for originality than those for town wear, I have designed suits for the country that have a character of their own. I particularly like the kind of loose, straight coat that is shown in the ensemble sketched to illustrate this article. To my mind that is the type of coat required for a country or traveling suit. Clothes of this category should be loose hanging. Otherwise, they have a look of town clothes that have gone astray.

YOU AND YOUR CHILD

By Emilie Hoffman

A NINE-YEAR-OLD came storming in after school and calling, "Hello, Mamma!" His mother greeted him with: "Can't you come into the house like a gentleman? Now you go right in and amuse your sister while we are talking."

The face changed instantly, and a scowl overcast the happy smile. He left the room without a word. Later we heard sister amusing herself and brother was gone. The exasperated mother exclaimed: "Isn't he a dreadful case? That is just the way he always does."

Meeting the lad outside the home, he accompanied me to the corner drug store. In our conversation I asked him why he did not amuse his sister, and he replied: "Well, you see, when mother speaks like that to me, somehow I never want to do what she asks me to do."

"Like what?" I ventured, and in great animation he continued: "Didn't you notice how she said it? Whenever she uses that tone in telling me to do a thing, something inside of me just keeps me from doing it."

In reply to my next query, he earnestly said: "Yes, I know we should obey our parents, but I don't see why a mother can't ask a favor in a pleasant way. Why must they always order us around like that? Mothers have a perfect right to tell their children to do this or that, but it makes a big difference how they say it. They ought to know they would get a lot more out of their children with kind words. Now if my mother hadn't talked so sharply I would have amused sister and had lots of fun and everything would have been O. K. Now I'll get scolded when I go in the house, but I don't think I shall be in any hurry to go in."

While one would not say this lad's actions are justifiable, any thinking person can see his side of it and understand his feeling of resentment. The mother sees only defiance and disobedience, but it has, apparently, not occurred to her that there is a reason for the child's self-assertion. Were she to probe for this, as a conscientious mother would do, she would be surprised that her tone of voice is having this bad effect upon her boy. She also does not suspect that the child's extreme nervousness can be explained by this error in her child's training.

Peremptory commands from those in authority are distasteful to adults, so why punish a child for a resentment which is but natural? As this lad remarked, parents would gain more by asking a child in a pleasant manner to do things and often it is more expedient to request than to command.

AT THE BEAUTY SHOP

By Frances Olivier.

COIFFING THE DEMURE GIRL.

CHARACTER she may not be demure at all, but if she is slender, and "feminine" and rather fine of feature, the type of coiffure sketched will suit her well.

To achieve it, her hair must be long, or at least long enough to be supplemented by a transposition. For the only proper finish to the style of hairdressing is a soft little bun at the nape of the neck.

If the hair is straight and the facial expression lacking in softness, the extreme simplicity of this arrangement may possibly result in severity. But with black hair, dark eyes and an interesting palor, plus a pair of interesting earrings, severity can very easily become smartness.

However, there is nothing quite like a wave to save a difficult (hair) situation. The present one, particularly, provided the general outlines of a coiffure are all in harmony with the general outlines of the face—and the figure too.

The new rough tweeds are extremely chic this season, and Louiseboulanger has chosen a pretty one in red, beige and brown mixture for this smart loose coat and widely pleated skirt.

Printed ensembles plan an important part. This one is in black and white jersey bordered with plain black and a narrow fringe. A black scarf collar and belt complete the picture.

Dull red lamage is chosen for this long coat with incrustations down the front of beige voile de laine mouche to match the dress it covers, and this in its turn is incrustated with plain red.

The dress that is designed to wear with the coat in the preceding figure. Note the clever manner in which the side pleats are flared, and the manner in which the incrustations mould the hip-line.

The great novelty of the Louiseboulanger collection is the new high neckline in some of the evening gowns. This model is of lame gauze with multicolored flowers on a red ground.

In contrast this gown of Pompeian red crepe dotted with tiny gold flowers has an almost short skirt, showing us that the long back and the all-long dress have their rivals.

women look like slender, graceful Dresden china figures. Then there are models of fine lame gauze which gives a richer effect for more ceremonial gowns.

I am particularly fond of a tulle gown in soft pale green which has a new type of skirt that is narrow to the knee where it spreads out into fullness on the floor, and there are long trailing ends at the back. This gown is also embroidered in the same shade of green.

I am once more showing a number of tulle evening gowns. This has a charm which I think is different from that expressed by any other fabric. Of course it should only be worn by the more ethereal type of woman, for taffeta gowns even when simple in line, give a more ample kind of setting than do other materials and are particularly becoming to the slender woman.

Summer Pillows.

Cotton batting is frequently used for the porch or summer pillows and the down ones put away for winter use. However, cotton batting can be made almost as soft as down by cutting it into squares, putting them into a baking pan and placing in a warm oven until thoroughly heated. Watch carefully to prevent scorching. After the cotton is heated it will be soft and fluffy.

There is an endless variety of beautiful loosely woven tweeds and lamages this season that make the designing of country clothes a real pleasure. The charming speckly surfaces show such delightful blends of coloring. Mingled red, beige and brown is chosen for the suit to which I have referred. There are black and white mixtures that give a chic gray effect. While some of the most attractive color blends give that lovely Lovat blue that makes such distinguished country clothes. I have made some amusing blouses of my friend, Monsieur Rodier's, flag squares which have been such a success this season. They are original without being eccentric and lend themselves to the simple individual treatment which has all its chic in line and cut and needs no trimming.

Apart from sports and morning clothes I am making dresses with many flowered printed chiffons for evening gowns. To my mind nothing could be prettier for summer evening wear. They make favor of the allround long dress for all evening occasions. I have even designed some models that show the influence of the short gown that we appeared to have abandoned. Women undoubtedly like to show their ankles. I do not think the moment has come to introduce very great length as a general feature of fashion. So you will find in my collection some nearly short dresses with a touch of drapery on one side, like the crepe de chine model that has been sketched on this page.

Other gowns in my collection have a Princess line that is broken at the side by panels placed at irregular intervals.

I am using a certain amount of embroidery in intricate designs carried out in subdued colors that blend with the whole tonality of the dress.

NCE more I am using a great many flowered printed chiffons for evening gowns. To my mind nothing could be prettier for summer evening wear. They make

How to Guide A Little Child

By Agnes Lyne

FACT AND FANCY

WHEN the child of four tells an untruth it is hardly ever a lie in the ugly meaning of the word.

But because truth-telling has always been regarded as one of the essential virtues, about which there can be no compromise, the parent who catches his child in what sounds like a lie is generally so shocked that he is quick to scold or punish.

Yet truth-telling is no easy art. It must be fostered with tact and intelligence until the young child is able to distinguish between his fancies, his wishes and the facts.

Little Ruth was fortunate in having a mother who was wise in this matter. One February day when the snow lay on the ground, the child came in with a fantastic story of the lovely flowers she had seen blooming in the gardens down the street. She described in detail their bright, beautiful colors and their sweet smell.

Ruth's mother listened to the story in a friendly manner and then diverted the child's interest to something else. She understood that Ruth's wish to see again the flowers that had been so lovely in the summer lay back of her wild tale.

Later on, from time to time, she talked to Ruth about the coming of flowers in the spring, how they grew in warmth and sunshine, how it would not be so very long before they would come again in all the gardens down the street. Thus, gradually, although she never referred to the story Ruth had told, quite properly accepting it as a wish made real in the child's own mind, she helped her sort out fact and fancy and clarified the little girl's ideas.

When little children tell untruths parents must try to find out what the story meant to the child. Some stories, like great works of art, should be considered on their merits as feats of the imagination. Others should lead the parent to check up on the facts in a kindly and tactful spirit.

Treating the falsehoods of the little child with sympathetic insight is the best way to help him learn to tell the truth.

Selecting Peas.

Some housekeepers will have only the very small, sifted French peas on their tables. In foot value, however, these are really inferior to the larger peas. True, they contain 16 per cent sugar but the larger variety have a higher percentage of starch and some protein and when considered from the point of nutrition and economy they are great, to be preferred to the extra fine sift. It is the flavor of the French peas that appeals to the taste. They contain a little mineral matter and should be served with meat and a starchy vegetable such as potatoes or rice.

Helping Ella Cinders Decide

SKESTON, Mo.

Miss Ella Cinders: The question is, "Resolved, Ella Cinders should marry Jim Blunt." My colleague, Frances Schneider, and I will try to prove the negative side of the question. First of all, you love your work so much that if you wait a while and continue with it you will become a great success. Next, if you keep up you'll soon be very rich and retire from the stage, known to everyone. Third, you will later marry another man, who will love you as much as Jim. Last, the West would be dull and tiresome, while, when working, you can live in luxury.

SYLVIA GOLDSTEIN.
FRANCES SCHNEIDER.
ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Vacillating Ella: I do not believe you really love Jim Blunt. If you did he would not need to ask you twice. But he is a worthy man—apparently—(you never know), so why not flip a coin? But what is the use? Ella would think it came up the wrong way every time, anyway. FLOI.

STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo. Dear Ella: I advise you to marry Jim Blunt. If you really love him, for I think Jim loves you. I think you will be better satisfied living with Jim Blunt than following your stage work. I believe that Jim will make you happy.

STELLA WOMACK.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Ella Cinders: Please, for goodness' sake, marry Jim Blunt. Remember, fame only lasts a short time. It glitters while it's new, but it soon gets old. And when your fame dies down, you'll be left alone. So marry Jim Blunt and have someone to care for you and take care of you during your whole lifetime. I have read Ella Cinders over since it was published, but I swear if Ella does not marry Jim Blunt I'll never look at that comedy again. A READER.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella: If I were you I would still stay on the stage and become a bigger star than you are. Jim might take you to the ranch, but you're young married and then hit you and everything. Please stay on the stage.

MILDRED MARGULIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Miss Cinders: Your problem is indeed hard, but it is one which confronts many girls of today. The financially independent girl asks herself if she should surrender that independence for a possible life of drudgery or monotony in maintaining a home. Your case is slightly different. Home life for you will be pleasant, as Jim Blunt has the means to make it so. Marry Jim and you will have the lifelong respect and love of a good man whom you love, which is everything.

ARTHUR JIM (COLEMAN),

3435 Arsenal street.

KIRKWOOD, Mo.

Dear Ella: I don't blame you for enjoying the sight of seeing your name in electric light, but if you have found a man with a sense of humor don't let him go. It is better to have one man laughing with you and for you than so many laughing at you. Besides, marriage will give you ample room to develop this talent of yours. A sense of humor is invaluable to marriage. But don't let me influence you, and make up your mind to keep it made up.

With best wishes,

MRS. H. J. MORSE.

Box 652.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Ella, old, doughnut, if you're gonna shake the dust of Broadway off your feet to go out west and have a bunch of little Cinders, baby, go on and marry your speaker— but don't blame me! If Jimmie can't wait until you've fulfilled your contract and you're willing, why it must be love, and I'm going to wish you both lots of luck—you'll need it. But listen, Ella: speaking of dust and Cinders, as long as you're gonna leave the dust, leave it to me, won't you?

BEE (HERSELF) JEFFE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

I advise you to get married to Jim Blunt, because you will be happy on the ranch. And not only that, but you will spoil his happiness and I think you will be sorry yourself, and just picture yourself a lonely old woman and then picture yourself with dear Jim. I think they all want you to marry Jim.

ROSEMARY O'DONNELL.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

I am writing you about your problem of getting married. I am not married myself, but hope to be some day to a man like Jim Blunt.

Next Monday, "Hands Up," a thrilling series of true detective stories, begins in the Post-Dispatch. These stories taken from secret records now revealed for the first time, show how the great express companies of America catch criminals. Look for the first installment of "Hands Up" in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine next Monday.

FLO STELEHN.

BOURBON, Mo.

I advise you to marry him and go live on his ranch in the West. I have lived in the West and know how beautiful it is. Give up your career and marry Jim Blunt.

Your truly,

LORRAINE EVANS.

HERRIN, Ill.

Dear Miss Ella: You could never be happy. You, a city girl, a woman of the stage, and Jim Blunt an old-fashioned lover of the range. You used to be the bright lights and the love of thousands. No, no, Ella! Marry a man of the world who you live in. He has your views and will help and encourage you. Loves the glare of the spotlight, the things you care for. Jim Blunt's a good man, and he loves you, no doubt. But, Ella, think how soon love will fly alone on a ranch. Miles of lonely hills and the noise of cattle. No, you could never be happy. Say no and be happy. With Jim as a lover and dear love of your youth. Marry him and learn to hate him and your life will be one of regrets, and you will live on the days that might have been. No, no, Ella! Cry a little and say good-bye.

NORMA HAGENOW.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

I think it would be better for you to get married. It is nice to be an actress, but you've been one long enough. You will like living on a ranch better than being an actress. You love Jim and he loves you. He has plenty of money to take care of you. So marry Jim and go west. Take my advice and get married.

FLORENCE SCHNEIDER,

6618 Michigan av.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dearest Ella: I say marry Jim and go on the farm. I think it would be a nice place for Blackie and also your father, if you wanted him to stay with you. Before, when they sold the show you were out of a job, but you will always have something to do on the ranch.

ROSELLA CANDY,

5922 Shulte st.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella: You love Jim and you proved it to yourself when you refused John Smith's proposal. Can't you remember the time when you were nothing but a dishwasher, and you tried so hard to get Jim to notice you? Now that you have had attention, take my advice and marry Jim. SUGAR.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

Marry Jim Blunt and have a big wedding! You love him, and really, I don't think you are so fond of your career. You have enough money and, besides, that your father still owes you $50,000.

JINNY.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dearest Ella:

I am writing this letter only to advise you what to do. As you know you told me in your last letter to me that you never wanted to hear of me again.

I am sorry I acted so rude with you the last evening we were together, but please forgive me.

Now please, don't marry Jim Blunt, for you should know if you don't, that he can't give you all the loving that you need, because he is only a cowboy, and doesn't understand women as I do.

Won't you accept my last proposal? Then you can be a "June bride" and you shall have anything your little heart desires.

If you marry Jim Blunt and go

West you will soon be forgotten, but if you marry me you can still be an actress.

Meet me Wednesday evening at the stage door after your last act so I can tell you some more reasons why you should not marry "Jim." I would tell you now but I am afraid some one might see this letter.

Your Unknown Lover.

M. L.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

We advise you to be the family "sop" and start a family tree. You would have much more fun riding horses on Jim's ranch than making whoopee in New York.

LENA GAINSTER,

PEARL BUTTON,

JIM NASSIUM,

ELLA PHANT.

Chesterfield, Mo.

Dear Ella:

My advice is, don't marry Jim because he lives far out in the sticks, and if you went there you would get hungry to see your name in electric lights on Broadway. I don't believe you really love Jim because this is the first love affair you have had with Jim, and my mother said that first love is "puppy love."

EVELYN BADE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.

Dear Ella:

What could be more perfect than this month to be married? I advise you to forget the stage and be a star in Jim Blunt's life and look at the advantages it would give

Raw Foods in the Diet

RAW foods should be included in the most careful diet. Even the "person" prejudiced against raw foods will enjoy a salad and realize it is composed of raw vegetables.

Tomatoes and lettuce is a favored salad combination. Others are watercress and young onions, cucumbers, onions and radishes on lettuce. Sprinkling grated carrots over a salad gives the raw food touch.

A salad that appeals to the appetite through its appearance is made by cutting a tomato in quarters, leaving it joined at the bottom. Between each section place slices of cucumber and fill in the center with shredded cabbage mixed with mayonnaise and served as a section of lettuce with French dressing. Boiled egg may be added if desired.

Chopped cabbage, celery and green pepper and minced onions mixed with mayonnaise and served as a section of cabbage leaf, then garnished with tomatoes, strips, make a delicious raw vegetable salad.

A refreshing green salad is made of shredded lettuce, watercress, green, minced cucumber and sliced chopped hard-boiled egg, all together in a bowl with a French dressing.

WALL STREET
STOCK PRICE LIST MIXED
AT WEEK-END

Final Quotations Are Irregularly Lower After a Series of Highly Confusing Movements.

SMALL ADVANCES
IN THE OIL GROUP

Selling of Commonwealth Power Which Declines 11 Points, Unsettles Market in Late Trade.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 7.—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange went through a series of highly confusing price movements today, with final quotations irregularly lower. Absence of public participation and uncertainty over the trend of call money rates next week had a restrictive effect on trading, which was confined largely to the usual week-end roadjustment of speculative accounts.
Selling of Commonwealth Power, which declines 11 points to 130, unsettled the market in the late trading. General Electric, National Cash Register, DuPont, Electric Auto Lite and United Aircraft preferreds were all carried down 2 points or more on the absence of effective buying support.
Some of the leading oils were under accumulation in expectation that the opening of the Colorado Springs conservation conference next week would be utilized to stage a bullish demonstration in some issues, but the gains generally were held to a point or two.

Utilities Fall to Hold Gains.
American Water Works and American Power & Light failed to maintain their early gains but they closed with moderate net advances. American Locomotive extended its gain to 5 points by touching 125 and closed at the top. New Haven, heavily bought in the late trading, one block of 1904 shares hanging hands at 110 followed by sale at 110 1/4, the highest price since 1913.

Foreign exchanges were dull but fairly steady. Sterling Cable held at $4.84 1/2. The Japanese yen rallied further, getting up to 44 cents, compared to its par value of 33.3 cents.

American Locomotive Feature.
American Locomotive was a noteworthy feature of the short session as it rose to new record levels for the year under the impetus of further persistent buying. The company is enjoying present the best year since 1923 and bids fair to show its $8 common dividend covered by a substantial margin for the first time since 1924. It is estimated that earnings at the present time are running at the rate of around $15 a share for the full year. American Locomotive has frequently been remarked for the strength of its financial position. In spite of several lean years in which dividends have been paid irregularly, the balance sheet showed current assets of $48,175,000, ending $12,448,000 cash, call loans and marketable securities with current liabilities only $4,011,000.

Oil Meeting Monday.
Governors of the leading oil producing states, or their official representatives, will gather at Colorado Springs on Monday in response to the call issued by President Hoover some weeks ago for a conference, having as its aim the promotion of the industry's welfare. The gathering will discuss ways and means of conserving the nation's oil resources, through the elimination of waste and better regulation of production. The meeting, which will in all probability cover several days, is expected to bring suggestions which should be of considerable aid in guiding the actions of the leaders in the industry who are seeking to stabilize conditions after their bitter experience of the last several years.

Closing stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 6, 9 and 10.
